ARCANA HORTENSIA

Arcana hortensia. Das ist: Bewehrte kunst-stück, oder geheime lehren, wie unterschiedliche pflanzen, und blumengewächse, als da seynd tulipanen, nägelein, anemonen, feygen, melonen, pomeranzen &c. mit lust und nutz gezeuget, erhalten, vermehret, und absonderlich die tulipanen, und nägelein in allerley zierliche farben, gestalt und grösse nach der kunst mögen verändert werden: sambt einem kurtzen anhang, von etwelchen rahren sympathetisch- oder heimblichen würckungen der natur. Aus dem frantzösischen kürzlich ins teutsche übersetzt, durch M. St. P. Solod. Helv. Costantz, Gedruckt bey J. J. Labhart, 1718. 124 p. (Dept. Agr.; Brit. Mus.)

Altho no other copy has been located in libraries, this edition seems to be well known; it is recorded by Haller, Bib. Bot. 2:155; Miltitz, Bib. Bot. col.298; Dochnahl, Bib. Hort. p.8; and Jacob, Bib. Tulip Nomenclature Com. Rpt. (1917), p.149; and copies have been advertised by Dultz, Ant.-Kat. 38, no.890; Koehler, Ant.-Kat. 67, no. 549; J. Baer, Lager-Kat. 535, no.901, and others.

The following are apparently reprinted from the original, with some additions of new matter and many variations in the title-pages.

----- Bewährte garten-geheimnisse; wie pflantzen und blumengewächse zu tractiren. Nebst sympathetischer würkung der natur, und einem anhang von der rechten baum-zucht, insonderheit der zwerg-bäume, und andern gärtnareyen; aus dem frantzösischen übersetzt und mit kupffern versehen. Nürnberg, 1734. (Haller, l.c., 2:277; Dochnahl, l.c., p.53)

The title as given above is taken from the 2d ed. in Dept. Agr.; which it probably resembles, altho we have no exact knowledge of its wording. Dochnahl and Haller, which are our authorities for the date of this edition, give a title more like that of the 5th ed., 1752, beginning with the word "Wohlbewährte."

Inasmuch as most of the succeeding editions, thru that of 1754, have the imprint of Monath in Nürnberg, MFW infers that this edition, the first to be issued in that city, was published by him.

1. The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the country. It is a very interesting and informative study of the country's development. The author has done a great deal of research and has gathered a wealth of material. The report is well written and is a valuable contribution to the study of the country's development.

2. The second part of the report deals with the economic situation of the country. It is a very interesting and informative study of the country's economic development. The author has done a great deal of research and has gathered a wealth of material. The report is well written and is a valuable contribution to the study of the country's economic development.

3. The third part of the report deals with the social situation of the country. It is a very interesting and informative study of the country's social development. The author has done a great deal of research and has gathered a wealth of material. The report is well written and is a valuable contribution to the study of the country's social development.

----- 2. aufl. Nürnberg, P. C. Monath, 1735. 194 p.
(Dept. Agr.)

The first 102 pages are as in the original "Arcana," with addition of: "Tractat vom nützlichen baum-beschneiden und der rechten baum-zucht ... Durch Mons. René Daburon," p.103-194.

----- [3. aufl.] Nürnberg, 1738. (Haller, Bib. Bot. 2:277)

We cannot be certain of the wording of this title, but it is probably same as in either the 2d or the 5th edition.

----- Wohlbewährte garten-geheimnisse. [4. aufl.]
Nürnberg, 1743. (Dultz, Ant.-Kat. 61, no.386)

As given by Dultz the title is "Wohlbewährte," and it is probably like the following.

----- Wohl-bewährte garten-geheimnisse, wie pflanzen und blumen-gewächse zu tractiren. Nebst sympathetischen wirkungen der natur und einem anhang von der rechten baum-zucht, insonderheit der zwerg-bäume, und andern gärtneren, aus dem frantzösischen übersetzt und mit kupffern versehen. 5. und über die selffte verm. aufl. Wien und Nürnberg, P. C. Monath, 1752. 370 p. (Dept. Agr.)

With exception of a few words, this title is nearly identical with that of the 1735 ed., but the text is much expanded. Pages 1-102 are reprinted from the 1718 ed., and the "Tractat vom nützlichen baum-beschneiden und der rechten baum-zucht" occupies p.103-194 as in the 2d ed.; but the remainder of the volume consists of added material.

----- Wien und Nürnberg, Monath, 1754. (Haller, Bib. Bot. 2:277; Dochnahl, Bib. Hort. p.8)

----- Wien und Nürnberg, Monath, 1756. (Haller, l.c. 2:277; Dochnahl, l.c. p.8)

Kayser, Bücher-Lexikon, 2:301, also mentions this ed., with name of the printer, but gives the place as Nürnberg only.

----- Wohlbewährtes garten-buch, worinnen nicht nur von vielen seltenen geheimnissen sondern auch von den pflanzen, blumen, und andern garten-gewächsen, auch der baumzucht, von allerhand ordinären, wie auch besonders von zwerg-bäumen nützliche anzeige und gründliche nachricht ertheilet wird von Isidorus Anthophilus [pseud.] Lucern und Strassburg, Gedruckt auf kosten guter freunde, 1758. 370 p. (Dept. Agr.; Mass. Hort. Soc.; Mo. Bot. Gard.)

Altho the title is greatly changed, and the name of a supposed author supplied, this issue seems to be precisely like that of 1752, even having the same number of pages, and is doubtless an absolute plagiarism. (MFW)

----- Wohlerfahrener blumen-, küchen-, baum- und kunstgärtner. Augsburg, Rieger, 1779. (Darmstadt, Gartenbau Ver., Verz. Bücher (1875), p.8; Kayser, Bücher-Lex. 1:83)

Altho there is no direct evidence to connect this with the "Arcana hortensia", Kayser gives it under "Anthophilus, Isidorus", which, except for a slight change in spelling, is the name of the supposed author of the preceding book. As the latter is evidently pirated from the "Arcana" of 1752, it would not be surprising to find this work of 1779 also belonging to the same series of reprints. (MFW)

ARCANA HORTENSIA

From some source, now impossible to locate, the date 1716 has been indicated for the first edition, but this is not confirmed by any good authority, and it is highly improbable that there was any issue prior to 1718. The earlier date may have been based on the dedication, which is signed: "Augsburg, den 19. Martij, 1716 ... M. J. A. Stelly P." This dedication is not found in later issues, which show no traces of authorship save the pseudonym "Isidorus Anthophilus", supplied in 1758. The original edition is entered under Stelly in the British Museum Catalogue; Cobres, "Deliciae Cobresianae" (1782), 2:667; J. Baer, Lager-Kat. 535, no.901; and Dultz, Ant.-Kat. 38, no.890; but later editions are almost invariably given as anonymous. We have been unable to find any biographical data about Stelly, whose name may even be a pseudonym, but who at least was an actual person, and the one chiefly responsible for the production of this book.

The address to the reader is found in all copies examined, with slight change in form, altho later editions omit the date 1709, which shows when the work was compiled. According to this address Stelly does not claim the authorship of the book. He says explicitly that it is not the product of his own "feeble mind", but only the work of his "insignificant pen", and that he had occupied himself in translating it from the original French during the severe winter of 1709. Thru the courtesy of the Comte du Fenouil, who had been his host in Paris, he had become acquainted with the distinguished author of the original work. These "Kunst-stück" or garden precepts had not only been extracted from the latest and best edition thereof, but improved observations on many topics had been directly furnished by the author himself. The majority of the "Arcana" at the end of the book had been sent to Stelly some years before by Johann Ludwig, Freiherr von Roll, "Ritter Schultheiss" of the free canton of Solothurn. The author (probably the first mentioned, not von Roll), had moreover been so gracious as to permit him to copy all his tulip and carnation lore from his own manuscript, never before printed.

Possibly Stelly himself believed in the original character of the work he translated, but its contents are largely if not wholly derived from well known 17th century books. A rough analysis of the first edition shows the following: A scheme of nomenclature for varieties of carnations based on their colors (p.38-40) is found in Laurent, "Abrégé pour les arbres nains et autres" (1675), p.108-114; and "Lorant's" method of breaking tulips (p. 56-57) is taken from the same work, p.97-98. Incidentally, its author is called on p.38, "M. Porant Notaire de Lâon". A curious "Rätzel" or riddle on tulip breaking (p.52-54), mentioned by Rev. Joseph Jacob in his bibliography in the Tulip Nomenclature Committee Report (1917), proves to be translated from the equally unintelligible instructions in La Chesnée Monstereul,

"Le Floriste François" (1654), p.174-175. A section entitled "Palingenesis" begins (p.62) with a brief summary of writings on the subject, and proceeds with detailed directions (p.63-66) for making any plant rise, phoenix-like, from its ashes. This is found in Vallemont, "Curiositez de la nature et de l'art sur la végétation", p.281-284 of the Dept. Agr. copy, published Paris, 1711; but the work originally appeared in 1705, and had been translated into English and German before 1709. The "Appendix von sympathetisch- oder heimblichen würckungen der natur" (p.108-111) has a familiar sound, but it has not yet been traced to any other work, and we have made no special effort to identify the brief recipes, most of which are probably taken from other books.

Granting that Stelly may have received the bulk of his "Arcana hortensia" in its entirety from someone else, it could not possibly have been obtained from any one book. Nearly all the material we have identified is taken from works printed at one time or another by Charles de Sercy, who, from the evidence of the publications themselves, must have taken outrageous liberties with many of the books that came from his press. But, while some of these were reissued in garbled and mutilated editions by de Sercy and other printers, and altho the contents of this particular book might easily have been extracted and put together by some Frenchman, possibly even de Sercy himself, it does not appear that anything corresponding to the "Arcana hortensia" was ever published in French. So it seems as if Stelly's ingenious references to the distinguished original author may have been a mere fabrication intended to enhance the importance of his book, which actually was due solely to his diligence as a compiler.

The title: "Arcana hortensia" vaguely suggests some other books, like De la Croyx, "Deliciae & arcana florum" (Cöllen, 1697); Lucianus, "Manuductio ad deliciae hortensès" (Constantiae, 1670); Müller, "Deliciae hortenses" (Stuttgart, 1709-10; said to be "vermehrt von Christian Anthophilus"); also Timotheus von Roll, "Newes blumen-büchlein" (Costantz, 1669). But altho it is possible that paragraphs from some of these may have been used in compiling the "Arcana", none of the cursory comparisons that have been made show it to be definitely related to any of them. So far as the contents of the book have been identified, they are wholly taken from French publications, and nothing has been traced to any German work.

Altho its contents consist chiefly of the fanciful ideas and superstitions then prevalent about plants, or perhaps because of this fact, "Arcana hortensia" must have been popular, for it went thru many editions, all retaining the original absurdities, while some of the later ones include additional matter of some value. In the 1752 edition the address to the reader is condensed, but the original text is otherwise unchanged. It occupies the first 102 pages, preceded by the original table of contents. Pages 1-86 have a running title, "Garten-geheimnisse", which is not used on p.87-194, but is resumed in the section, "Von zubereitung eines blumen-gärtleins", p. 195-370. At the end of the volume are contents for this section, which has some information of historical value, such as a list of Dutch carnations (p.203-206), with a supplementary list comprising French and English sorts (p.206-209); and an alphabetical catalog of tulip varieties (p.219-224), including many of the names in Strömer von Reichenbach's version of Mandirola (1679), tho not identical with his list. Pages 103-194, as in previous issues, are occupied by the "Tractat vom nützlichen baum-beschneiden und der rechten baum-zucht, insonderheit der zwerg-bäume samt einer verzeichniss des besten franz-obstes ... Durch Mons. René Daburon [sic]", which is translated from Dahuron, "Traité de la tailler des arbres fruitiers". The last 50 pages of the 1752 edition contain further marvellous and fantastic garden recipes.

The 1758 edition with title, "Wohlbewährtes garten-buch ... von Isidorus Anthophilus", seems identical with the preceding. Altho published in a different place, and supplied with the name of a supposed author, it is an absolute plagiary of some earlier issue. It is, however, on better paper than that of 1752, and, with due allowance for its doubly spurious origin, is to be preferred to it for purposes of actual consultation.

There is a possibility that the "Wohlerfahrener blumen-, küchen-, baum- und kunstgärtner" (Augsburg, 1779), listed by Kayser, Bücher-Lexikon, 1:83, under "Antophilus, Isidorus", may be an edition of the "Arcana hortensia". There is no direct evidence of any connection between them, but the use of the name "Antophilus" (or "Anthophilus") is suggestive. Altho this has often been used in pseudonyms, in combination with the forename "Isidorus" it seems likely to refer to the supposed author of the "Arcana" of 1758.

explanation of the plates is by "Hr. pfarrer

According to Ann. d. Bot., the 1st heft has 40 p. and 2 plates, but Miltitz, col.326, gives 38 p. The 2d heft was noticed in Allg.
Lit. Ztg., Intelligenzbl., Mar. 5, 1796, but no collation was given. Kayser says the work consists of 2 hefte, with 4 plates, and Doch-nahl also records only 2 parts; but there was an announcement by the publisher, Erbstein, in Allg. Lit. Ztg., Intelligenzbl., June 8, 1796, of "1.bd., 3.hft." with 1 plate. As no other mention of this 3d part has been found, it seems doubtful whether it was ever issued.

LE BON JARDINIER

Bolton, Cat. Sci. Per., no.1011, gives 1753 as date of the first issue, but the earliest that can be accounted for by Gibault and recent editors of the publication is 1754. Even that can no longer be located, but "Bon jardinier," 1905, p.vi-viii, and Meunissier, Gard. Chron. (3) 56:128 (1914), conclude that there must have been an issue for that year. The name of the editor is not given in the earliest issues; but they were probably by Pons Augustin Alletz until 1768, when Thomas François de Grace and Verdier appear as editors. No names are given for the next few years, but De Grace and Verdier reappear in 1778, and the former seems to have been responsible for the publication from 1783 to 1797. He died in 1799, and it is not clear who was the editor at that time, but from 1803 onward the initials of Mordant de Launay appear on the title page. Bolton's inference that the "Jardinier portatif" constituted a certain series of the "Bon jardinier" must have been due to the fact that De Grace, while editor of the latter, wrote a little manual of gardening under the former title. It was not an annual, but passed thru several editions, from the first, published Liège, 1769, down to 1801.

No attempt has been made to give here changes in title, editorship or imprint during the 19th century. Publication ceased with the almanac for 1912.

The following articles have been consulted for early history: Bon jardinier, 1905, p.vi-viii; Gibault, Jour. Soc. Nat. Hort. France, 1905, p. 724; Meunissier, Gard. Chron. (3) 56:128 (1914); Robinet, Mém. Soc. Imp. et Cent. Agr. 1856 (1): 156-172 (1857).

The following sheets show 18th century issues of the "Bon jardinier" that have been located in libraries.

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of satisfying our curiosity about the past, but also a means of training the mind and of developing the character. It is through the study of history that we learn the lessons of the past and are enabled to avoid the mistakes of our ancestors. The author also emphasizes the importance of the study of the history of the United States, particularly the history of the American people, for it is through this study that we learn the principles of democracy and the values of the American way of life.

The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of satisfying our curiosity about the past, but also a means of training the mind and of developing the character. It is through the study of history that we learn the lessons of the past and are enabled to avoid the mistakes of our ancestors. The author also emphasizes the importance of the study of the history of the United States, particularly the history of the American people, for it is through this study that we learn the principles of democracy and the values of the American way of life.

4. The fourth part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of satisfying our curiosity about the past, but also a means of training the mind and of developing the character. It is through the study of history that we learn the lessons of the past and are enabled to avoid the mistakes of our ancestors. The author also emphasizes the importance of the study of the history of the United States, particularly the history of the American people, for it is through this study that we learn the principles of democracy and the values of the American way of life.

CATALOGUES DES PÈRES CHARTREUX

"The Carthusians, who cultivated a large nursery of fruit trees in the park of the Luxembourg at Paris, renowned in the 18th century, published between 1722 and 1789 a half-score of catalogues that are now very rare." - Gibault, Journ. Soc. Nat. Hort. France, 1905, p.739.

The following entries have been found:

Catalogue des plus excellents fruits, les plus rares et les plus estimés, qui se cultivent dans les pépinières des révérends pères Chartreux de Paris. Avec leurs descriptions et les tems le plus ordinaire de leur maturité. Paris, Typ. Coignard, 1728. (Pritzel, 1st.ed., no.11617)

Pritzel, l.c., gives collation of 4 p., but inasmuch as the next recorded edition, only 8 years later, has 40 p., it seems rather doubtful whether 4 p. would have been sufficient for all the information indicated by the title. (MEW)

----- Paris, Delespine, 1736. 40 p. (Pritzel, l.c.; Lelong, Bib. Hist. France, 2. éd., 1:196)

COMPENDIEUSES UND NUTZBARES HAUSHALTUNGS-LEXIKON

Compendieuses und nutzbares haushaltungs-lexikon, worinnen alle bey dem feld-, acker-, garten- und weinbau, wiesenwachs, holtzung, jägerei, fischerei, bierbrauen, viehzucht ... vorkommende wörter und redensarten ... untersucht worden sind ... von einem liebhaber der oeconomischen wissenschaften. ----- Bamberg, Nunzer, 1745. 2 v. (Seuffer & Willi, Kat. 12, item 234)

----- Vollständiges und sehr nutzbares haushaltungs-lexikon, worinnen alle die beim feld, acker, garten und weinbau, wiesenwachs, holtzung, jägerei, fischerei, bierbrauen, viehzucht ... vorkommenden sachen und redensarten nicht nur gründlich und deutlich beschrieben ... von einem liebhaber oeconomischer wissenschaften. Bamberg, 1752. (Güntz, 1:169; copy in Landw. Inst. Jena)

Güntz does not identify this with "Compendieuses und nutzbares haushaltungs-lexikon," 1728, but the similarity in titles, and the fact that a later ed. of that work was issued at Bamberg, 1745, make it almost certain that this must be still another ed. of the same book. (MFW)

By a society of gentlemen, members of the society for the encouragement of arts, manufactures, and commerce. London, 1766. (N. Y. Pub. Lib.)

McDonald, Agricultural writers, p.212, gives under the date 1764: Shenstone, William. The complete farmer; or Dictionary of husbandry. We do not find the work mentioned by Donaldson, and it is given in Cat. Lib. Roy. Agr. Soc. Eng. under title only; hence we feel that this attribution to Shenstone may not be well founded. (MFW)

THE COMPLEAT FLORIST

The compleat florist. London, Printed for J. Duke at the Royal Exchange and J. Carwitham near ye Seven Dials, 1740. 2 v. 100 col. pl. (C. Harman Payne)

Payne, Gardeners' Mag. 59:421 (Oct.14,1916), mentions two distinct eds., 1740 and 1747, both of which were in his own library. Weston listed that of 1747 in his bibliography, whence it was quoted by Johnson and Cecil, neither of whom, apparently, had seen the book. Moreover, Payne states, in Gard. Chron. (3) 64:7-8 (Jul.6,1918), that the work entitled: "The English flower garden; Le Jardin des fleurs anglais," consists of 87 out of the 100 plates of "The Compleat florist" of 1740.

----- London, Printed for J. Duke and sold by J. Robinson, 1747. 100 col. pl. (Dept. Agr.; Brit. Mus.)

The 1747 issue is attributed to J. Carwitham by Henry Cork, Cat. 9 (1931), item 327)

----- 2d ed. ... improved. London [1795?] 100 col. pl. (Brit. Mus.)

Brit. Mus. Cat. explicitly says this is a 2d ed. of the 1747 work, and describes it as having 100 col. pl. with descriptive letterpress. However, the 1747 issue has no separate text: the descriptions and directions for culture of the [plants] are printed on the plates themselves. This 2d ed. must therefore have been reprinted from that of 1740, which has separate text and plates. (MEW)

THE COMPLETE FLORIST

The Complete florist; or, The lady and gentleman's recreation in the flower garden ... Together with directions what to do each month in the year. London, Printed for R. Snagg and J. French [1774] 156 p. (Dept. Agr.)

There is nothing in the book to suggest its date, which is supplied from Watt, Bib. Brit., v.3, under the word "Florist." There is no connection between this and "The Compleat florist" of 1740 and subsequent editions. (MEW)

----- 2d ed. [1780?]

Offered by John H. Knowles, London, Cat. 14 (1930), no.96, with date bracketed and queried as above; not confirmed by other authority.

The Compleat fruit and flower gardener. 1733. See Cowell, John.
The curious and profitable gardener.

The Compleat planter & cyderist; or, Choice collections and observations for the propagating all manner of fruit-trees, and the most approved ways and methods yet known for the making and ordering of cyder, and other English wines. By a lover of planting. London, Printed for Tho. Basset, 1685. 256 p.
(Arn. Arb.)

H. Sotheran, Cat. 820 (1930), pt.3, no.2457, enters under title, with note stating that the author is unknown, but that the work is often incorrectly attributed to William Ellis, who published a book with similar title in 1757. Lady Cecil, Hist. Eng. Gard., 2d ed., p.350, enters under Ellis, but says the author's name does not appear in the book. As the preface is dated May 24, 1683, it is obviously impossible that this could be written by William Ellis who flourished 1732-1758. The latter's book on this subject has not thus far been identified, but MFW thinks Sotheran's statement may refer to a work entitled "The compleat cyderman," of which the Dept. Agr. possesses a copy published London, 1754, q.v. (MFW)

----- The Compleat planter and cyderist. Together with the art of pruning fruit-trees. In two books. I. Containing plain directions for the propagating all manner of fruit-trees ... II. The art of pruning, or lopping fruit-trees. With an explanation of some words which gardeners make use of, in speaking of trees. With the use of the fruits of the trees ... London, Printed for Thomas Bassett, 1690. 256, 104 p.
(Arn. Arb.)

The first part is apparently reprinted verbatim from the 1685 ed.; the 2d part, without individual t.-p., is translated from Nicolas Venette's "L'art de tailler les arbres fruitiers" (Paris, 1683), and is also found as a separate work with full title, for which see Venette, Nicolas.

A Compleat system of husbandry and gardening. 1668 et seq. See Worlidge, John. Systema agriculturae.

Complete. For titles beginning with this word see "Compleat."

Connoissance et culture parfaite des tulipes rares, des anémones extraordinaires, des oeillets fins, et des belles oreilles d'ours panachées. Paris, Laurent d'Houry, 1688. 141 p. (Brit. Mus.; C. Harman Payne; Hort. Soc. New York)

Haller, Bib. Bot. 1:644, gives date 1689, but this may be a misprint, or there may have been a reissue of the original ed. The title quoted by Haller is similar to that of the 1696 ed., including the phrase, "des belles fleurs."

The work has been attributed by Seguiet, Bib. Bot., p.398, and other bibliographers, to N. Valnay; but the late C. Harman Payne, who possessed both eds., in a letter to MFW, Dec.21,1921, says there is nothing in the 1688 ed. to indicate Valnay or anyone else as the author.

"This book is almost an exact reprint of the 1688 ed. ... except that here and there a page ends with a different line, and catch words are omitted. It has the same number of pages." Cf. letter of C. Harman Payne, cited above.

Cecil, p.340, credits to Gervase Markham, while Brotherston, Gard. Chron. (3) 58:389 (Dec.25,1915) says it is a composite work, often erroneously attributed to Markham. A note in Gard. Chron. (3) 28:72 (Jul.28,1900), says it is actually reprinted from Mascall, Leonard [i.e. David Brossard], "A booke of the arte and maner how to plant and graffe all sortes of trees" (1572), with the addition of Reynolde Scot's "Perfite platform of a hoppe-garden," and "The Expert gardiner," itself a compilation from earlier books. The illustrations are from Mascall, with some knots and parterres from "The Countrey farme" (1600).

Francis Edwards, Cat. 555, item 154, lists the title under Barker, Thomas; and William H. Robinson, Ltd., Cat. 52, item 295, brackets the name of Barker in the title, implying that he is author of the main work. Barker, however, was merely the author of "The art of angling," included in subsequent eds., but not in the original of 1640.

Seguier, p.404, gives the title, "Recreatio agricolae, sive Tractatus de plantatione aliisque quae ad hortum spectant," 1640, evidently a Latinization of the above.

----- Hereunto is added The art of angling [By Thomas Barker]. London, Printed by T. Mabb for W. Shears, 1654. 4 v. in 1. (Arn. Arb.; Harvard; Thordarson; Brit. Mus.)

"The art of angling" has individual t.-p. dated 1653.

DER CURIEUSE PFROPFF- UND OCULIR-MEISTER

Der curieuse pfropff- und oculir-meister, so da anweiset wie eine vollkommene baum-schule und pflantz-garten anzulegen und zu unterhalten sey ... Deme noch beygefüget der wohl untersuchte kraut- und blumen-gärtner anfangs beschrieben in frantzösischen anitzo aber in unser deutschen muttersprache übersetzt von einem sonderbahren gartenliebhaber. Frankfurt & Leipzig, 1690. 216, 160 p. (Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.293)

Paging from Miltitz; title is taken from copy of 1695 ed. in Arn. Arb.

A composite work, the first part consisting of a fairly close translation of Le Gendre, "La manière de cultiver les arbres fruitiers," with additions from Cardinal, "Le jardinier royal," Mollet, "Theâtre des jardinages," Rhagor, "Pflantz-gart," Vautier, "Instruction pour les arbres fruitiers," Coler, "Oeconomia oder Haussbuch," etc. The 2d part is reprinted with slight changes from "Der Schweitzerische botanicus" of Timotheus von Roll.

From the similarity in paging it would appear that the several issues cannot be very different.

Brit. Mus. enters under title, giving queried date 1800, and doubtfully attributes to J. Trusler. Johnson, Hist. Eng. Gard., p.244, assigns its date as 1784, which is followed by Lindley. A copy that was listed in H: Cork, Cat.9 (1931), item 361, included "Miscellanies on ancient and modern gardening, and on the scenery of nature" (1785), a work which was also issued anonymously but which has always been attributed to Samuel Felton. Is it possible that Felton also wrote the "Elements of modern gardening", which seems to belong to the same period? (MFW-Mar.10,1938)

The English flower garden. Le jardin des fleurs anglais. [n.p., n.d.] 87 plates.

C. H. Payne, "A bibliographical curiosity", Gard. Chron. III, 64:7-8 (July 6, 1918), says this plagiary consists of 87 of the 100 plates of the "Compleat florist" (1740), with descriptions and notes on cultivation blocked off the plates, which are printed in brown ink instead of black. The plates are rearranged and they are differently colored. The copy described was presumably in Mr. Payne's private library and no other has been recorded. (MFW)

The English gardener. 1670 et seq. See Meager, Leonard.

The English gardener's new and complete calendar; containing directions for the work necessary to be done every month in the kitchen-garden, fruit-garden [etc.] ... Shewing the seasons for propagating esculent plants and fruits; with the time when each sort is proper for the table: and for transplanting trees, shrubs, and plants, with the time of their flowering. Also a list of the medicinal plants ... By a practical gardener of twenty-five years experience. London, Printed for J. Wenman, 1778. 313 (i.e. 333) p. (Dept. Agr.)

Issued in monthly parts. Has also added title: "The gardener's magazine; or, Country gentleman's assistant, and gardener's companion... To which is also added a new and complete gardener's calendar."

6. The sixth part of the report is devoted to a detailed analysis of the international situation.

7. The seventh part of the report is devoted to a detailed analysis of the future prospects of the country.

8. The eighth part of the report is devoted to a detailed analysis of the conclusions and recommendations.

ENTDECKTE GRUFFT NATUERLICHER GEHEIMNISSE

Entdeckte grufft natürlicher geheimnisse. Das ist: Gewisse nicht in blosser speculation bestehende sondern durch viele experimente bewährte künste die landgüter mercklich zu verbessern ... Nebst einem anhang. Zell, H. F. Hoffmann, 1710.

U. S. Department of Agriculture enters this under Bilderbeck, Christoph Lorenz von (1682-1740), on the authority of Baer, Ant.-Kat. 633, from which the book was purchased. This title is not, however, included among the works of Bilderbeck in Güntz, Handb. Landw. Litt., nor can I find other good authority for this attribution. The title is entered as anonymous in Haller, Bib. Bot. 2:120, with the note: "Ex Vallemontio excerptum a Fridenrico v. Bresslau und Aschaffenburg."

Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.295, enters the "Entdeckte grufft" under Vallemont, as does Burchardt in Der Teutsche Obstgärtner, 16:125. Miltitz gives eds. of 1749 and 1762; Burchardt gives eds. of 1747 and 1752, while Haller gives eds. of 1710, 1717, and 1752.

Haller's note is explained by the fact that Vallemont's work, "Curiositez de la nature et de l'art sur la végétation" (1st ed., Paris, 1705), was translated into German by Ferdinand von Bressler und Aschenburg, whose preface is dated "Bresslau, den 23. Oct. 1708." This translation, entitled: "Merckwürdigkeiten der natur und der kunst" (Bresslau, Durch die Baumannischen erben verlegt; druckts Johann Jancke, 1708), is in the library of the N. Y. Botanical Garden.

The "Entdeckte grufft" (1710) has been compared with a copy of Vallemont's "Curiositez de la nature et de l'art sur la végétation", published Paris, 1711, and perhaps quite different from the original one. The preface of the former begins with a paragraph or two from Vallemont, and proceeds to announce a "Grosse geheimniss von vermehrung des korns, wie solches würcklich versucht und practisiret werden", giving references to St. Paul (Epist. Rom. cap.I, v.20), to agriculture of Isaac (Genesis, cap.24, v.36), and to St. Theresa (L. de la Voye part. & L. du Chateau de l'ame cap.2, habit.9)

The first two chapters of the "Entdeckte grufft" are on means of multiplying the productivity of grains and application of the method to other plants. Cap.iii (p.55-80), "Von dem salpeter" &c., is chiefly from Vallemont, chap.vi (p.159-201), "Le nitre est le sel de fecondité" &c. Cap.iv (p.81-88), "Von denen säfften, deren nutzen" &c. is from Vallemont, chap.v (p.132-140). Cap.v (p.88-100), "Wie solche säffte im gemeinen leben, und sonderlich in der medicin gar heilsam zu gebräuchen" is also from Vallemont, chap.v (p.141-158). Cap.vi (p.101-120), "Von der palingenesie" &c. is from Vallemont, chap.x (p.260-300), "Le phenix végétal" &c.

As already noted, the Dept. of Agriculture copy of Vallemont may be a garbled one. It has a sub-title: "Où l'on voit Le Secret de la multiplication du Blé, & les moyens d'augmenter considérablement le revenu des biens de la campagne", but I find little of this in the text. Possibly the first two chapters of the "Entdeckte grufft" are based on matter which was found in the original edition of Vallemont but omitted from that of 1711. In this edition the first chapter is a eulogy of the joys of gardening, and chapters 2-4 are on the physiology of plants, with some of the science of that period, but a tendency to stress the miraculous rather than the normal. Chapters 5, 6, and 10 are reproduced in "Entdeckte grufft", iii-vi. Chapters 7-9 are on the curiosities of vegetation. Chap.11 treats of a method of starting cuttings in water, and concludes with a letter from J. Ligon, the King's botanist, to M. de la Malemaison, governor of Guadeloupe, dated Paris, April 1, 1708, and therefore an addition to the first edition of 1705. Chap.12 discusses the philosophy of this principle of growing plants in water as known to the old philosophers and among the learned savants of recent times.

No detailed comparison has been made between the "Entdeckte grufft" and Bressler und Aschenburg's German version of Vallemont. It may be the former was directly compiled from the latter, possibly by Bilderbeck, or possibly by Bressler himself. It may also be mentioned that the publisher of this 1710 edition of "Entdeckte grufft", H. F. Hoffmann of Zell, is connected with some other books of doubtful antecedents.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry must be supported by proper documentation, such as receipts or invoices. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze data. These methods include direct observation, interviews, and the use of specialized software tools. Each method has its own strengths and limitations, and the choice of which to use depends on the specific requirements of the study.

The third part of the document focuses on the results of the data collection process. It presents a series of tables and graphs that illustrate the trends and patterns observed in the data. These visual aids are essential for helping the reader understand the complex information presented in the text.

Finally, the document concludes with a series of recommendations for future research. The author suggests that further studies should be conducted to explore the underlying causes of the observed trends and to develop more effective strategies for addressing the issues identified in the research.

Gibault, Etude (1905), p.751, says: "Attribué à Le Pelletier de Frépillon," but his use of the article is probably a typographical slip, as the name is always given elsewhere as "Pelletier de Frépillon". Cat. Bib. Nat., moreover, gives reference from "Frépillon" to "Pelletier", but has nothing under "Le Pelletier." Cat. Bib. Nat. enters under Pelletier de Frépillon.

THE EXPERT GARDENER

The Expert gardener: or, A treatise containing certaine necessary, secret, and ordinary knowledges in grafting and gardening: with divers proper new plots for the garden. Also sundry expert directions to know the time and season when to sow and replant all manner of seeds. With divers remedies to destroy ... vermine. Faithfully collected out of sundry Dutch and French authors. London, Printed by Richard Herne, 1640. 54 p. (With The Country-mans recreation. London, Printed by B. Allsop and T. Fawcet for M. Young, 1640) (Dept. Agr.; Lindley; Rothamsted)

Lady Cecil, in her Hist. Gard. Eng., 2d ed., p. 342, enters this work under Charles de Sercy, saying it is given by Johnson and Watt, but not found elsewhere. The idea that it was translated from a French work by de Sercy is hardly probable, since it is doubtful whether he had published anything as early as 1640.

Moreover, the title is entered as anonymous in other bibliographies. It is given by Seguiet, Bib. Bot., p.404; and by Martyn in Miller's Dict. (1807) p.xxii. It has also been advertised by numerous booksellers.

In a note on the library of the late Dr. James Hardy, in Gard. Chron. III, 28:72 (July 28, 1900), it is stated that this work, forming part of "The Countryman's recreation", which was practically a reprint of Leonard Mascall, was itself a compilation from earlier sources, including Hill's "Arte of gardening."

It was reprinted in 1654, and possibly also in 1653, and apparently exists both in "The Country-mans recreation" and as a separate tract.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation

$$f(x) = \int_0^x \frac{1}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is well known that this function is the arctangent function, i.e., $f(x) = \arctan x$.

2. In the second part, we consider the function $g(x)$ defined by the equation

$$g(x) = \int_0^x \frac{1}{1+t^4} dt$$

It is known that this function is the function $\arctan t$ integrated from 0 to x . The function $g(x)$ is an odd function, i.e., $g(-x) = -g(x)$. The function $g(x)$ is also a periodic function with period π . The function $g(x)$ is also a continuous function.

3. In the third part, we consider the function $h(x)$ defined by the equation

$$h(x) = \int_0^x \frac{1}{1+t^6} dt$$

THE GARDEN COMPANION

The Garden companion ... or a calendar pointing out what should be done every month in the green house, flower, fruit and kitchen garden ... 7th ed. London [1800?] (Brit. Mus.)

Neither the original edition nor the author has been traced. It seems not improbable that this was one of Abercrombie's books. His "The practical gardener's companion" was published in 1838 by James Mean or Main. It was called 8th ed., and might have succeeded the 7th ed. given above. The 7th may have been originally issued earlier than 1800, and the German work listed below, with date 1795, could have been translated from it. (MFW)

----- [German] The Garden-companion oder Der Garten-gesellschafter und immerwährender garten-kalendar für herren und damen. Leipzig, Bei Friedrich Gotthelf Baumgärtner, 1795. 181 p. (Becker, Taschenbuch für garten freunde, 1796, p.363-364)

Said to be translated from 7th English ed.

----- 2. ausgabe. Aus dem englischen übersetzt, nach der siebende ausgabe neu bearbeitet und vermehrt von F. G. Leonhardi. Leipzig, Bei Friedrich Gotthelf Baumgärtner, 1796. 204 p. (Becker, Taschenbuch für garten freunde, 1797, p.415-416)

Neither of Becker's reviews gives any hint of the authorship of the original, nor do they give contents in such a way as to aid in identifying the work. (MFW)

The Gardener's new companion ... Added, an appendix containing the manner of keeping bees. Dublin, Exshaw, 1766-67. 5 pts. in 1 v. (Boston Pub. Lib.; Harvard)

The appendix on bee keeping may be a work attributed to Thomas Wildman, which was also published with Combles, "Treatise upon peach trees" (Dublin, Exshaw, 1768?) (MFW)

The date of publication is fixed by the advertisement at end of the N. Y. Public Library copy: "Books printed for and sold by W. Owen and R. Goadby." No. 13 of this list is an announcement of the dates of all the fairs to be held in England and Wales in the year 1754. Both Johnson, Hist. Eng. Gard., and Haller, Bib. Bot. 2:439, give the date as 1754, but Brit. Mus. Cat. gives a queried date [1770?]. This may have been an attempt to approximate the year of issue, or it may refer to a later edition of the 1754 work. (MFW)

 This may be related to "Ein neues garten-, baum- und pelz-büchlein", which has been entered with queried dates 1725 and 1740. (MFW)

HORTICULTURA, DAT IS: HOVENIERINGE.

Horticultura, dat is: Hovenieringe, oft instructie om te hovenieren. Door B. I. M. Carthuyser. Van nieuws oversein, vermeerdert ende vervetert. 't Enchuysen, Gedruckt voor A. Wesselsz, 1640. [16] p. 13.5cm. (Dept. Agr.)

The word "Carthuyser" is evidently not the name of the author, who is represented by initials "B. I. M.", but indicates that he was a member of the Carthusian order. This is also shown by the following entry, in which the "I." becomes a "J.", and the "B.", which may signify brother or friar, is omitted. Thus we conclude that the author was a Carthusian brother called I. (or J.) M. The tract itself is a very trifling contribution to horticultural literature. (MFW)

Horticultura, ou L'art de bien jardinier, planter et semer, par J. M. Chartreux. Bruxelles [1679] (Haller, Bib. Bot. 1:603; Müller, Einleit. Oekon. u. Phys. Bücherkunde (1780) 1:61)

Haller does not assign a date for this work, but lists it in the period 1678 or 1679; while Müller definitely gives the latter date. Both say it is by "J. M. Chartreux", dropping the initial "B." used in the preceding entry. Haller, moreover, plainly states that it is "ex belgico conversus", i.e. translated from the Flemish or Dutch, thus clearly identifying this with the "Horticultura" of 1640. It is quite possible ~~that~~ that the French version may have additions of new or borrowed material, as no full description of it has come to light. (MFW)

THE HUSBANDMAN'S FRUITFULL ORCHARD

The husbandmans fruitfull orchard. Shewing diuers rare new secrets for the true ordering of all sortes of fruite in their due seasons. Also how your increase and profite maie bee much more then heertofore, and yet your charge and labour the same. With the manner of gathering all kindes of fruit aswel stonefruit as other, and howv they are to be ordered in packing, carrying, & conueying them by land or by water. Then in separating or culling them into diuers sortes, and lastlie in reseruing or laying them up, as may be for their best lasting and continuance. Never before published. At London, Imprinted for Roger Iackson and are to bee sold at his shop in Fleet-street neere the conduit, 1609. (Title page facsimile in J. Tregaskis, Caxton head Cat. 1010, p.5. Entered under [F.(N.)], item 23).

"Never before published" on this title-page facsimile does not agree with Cecil's statements.

THE HUSBANDMAN'S FRUITFULL ORCHARD

[The Husbandman's fruitfull orchard] The Fruiterer's secrets, containing directions for the due time and manner of gathering all kind of fruit. London, Printed by R. B. for Roger Jackson, 1604. (~~Not located~~)

Lindley Lib.

Full title as given above, from Haller, Bib. Bot. 1:402, and imprint from Cecil, Hist. Gard. Eng., 2d ed., p.338, where the work is entered under "N. F." Lady Cecil says it was reprinted in 1608 and 1609 with title: "The Husbandman's fruitfull orchard".

Hogg, The Apple (1859), p.xiii, gives title: "The Husbandman's fruitfull orchard" under date 1597, saying that this is also the date of Lawson's "New orchard and garden", 1st ed. Since the earliest ed. of Lawson now known is that of 1618,'17 in the British Museum, and also because Hogg gives the "Husbandman's fruitfull orchard" only with the title that is always used for its later reprints with Lawson, it looks as tho he had unquestioningly accepted the supposed date 1597 for both works. While there are in actual existance eds. of the "Fruiterer's secrets" (including some under the later title), published prior to any known ed. of Lawson, it is rather improbable that either of these works goes back as far as 1597.

Haller, l.c., has a supplementary note: "Cum Malorum Cantiani Historia". This might indicate that the 1604 ed. was appended to, or bound with some account of Kentish apples; or it might mean that Haller found special information about them in the pamphlet itself. R. P. Brotherston, in an article, "The Fruiterer's secrets", Gard. Chron. (3) 36:262 (Oct.8,1904), does not mention localities; but finds the work generally applicable to English fruit growing.

Brotherston, l.c., rates this pamphlet highly, saying: "It gave in concise form, yet with commendable fullness, the methods that experience had proved best for gathering, packing, carrying, and storing the fruits commonly cultivated in England. When compared with the short notes on these subjects that appear in The New Orchard and in Markham's edition of The Countrie Farme, this little pamphlet must be regarded as being by far the best treatise on the subject that appeared for a long series of years". Brotherston's article, signed only with the initial "B.", was acknowledged by him in a letter to MFW.

This tract was for the first time appended to Lawson's works, 2d ed., 1623, with Gervase Markham's "Farwell to husbandry", 1625, and seems to have been included in all subsequent reprints of Lawson's works with those of Markham. Altho the "New orchard" of 1653 has been offered for sale with the note that it lacked Harward's treatise on the propagation of plants, implying that "The Husbandman's fruitfull orchard" was also missing; this was probably an imperfect copy. (MFW)

Brotherston, I.C., rates this pamphlet highly, saying: "It gave a concise form, yet with considerable fulness, the methods that experience had proved best for gathering, peeling, drying, and storing the furs, and was especially cultivated in England. When compared with the short notes on these subjects that appear in The New Orchard, and in Larssen's edition of The Arctic Voyages, this little pamphlet must be regarded as being by far the best treatise on the subject that has appeared for a long series of years. Brotherston's article, signed only with the initials 'B.', was acknowledged by him in a letter to me.

This tract was for the first time included in Larssen's works, 2d ed., 1892, with several other tracts "first published by Larssen," 1892, and also to have been included in all subsequent editions of Larssen's works with those of Larssen. Since the "New Orchard" of 1892 has been often reissued with the note that it included Larssen's tracts on the propagation of fur, it is probable that the Larssen's tracts on fur were also missing; this was probably an imperfect copy. Forms part of Markham, Gervase, "Farwell to husbandry" (London, 1625), and later reprints were all probably issued with Markham's works.

----- [1626?] (Brit. Mus.?)

Although no definite record has been found of this ed., the tract is included in the London, 1927, reprint of Lawson's "A new orchard and garden ... Reprinted from the 3d ed. [1626]". (MFW) See below.

----- [1668?] (In Lawson, William. A new orchard and garden. London, 1668?] (Mass. Hist. Soc.; Brit. Mus.)

Lawson's "New orchard" is included in Gervase Markham's "A way to get wealth", London, 1668, but the exact dates of the several parts of this reprint are not available. (MFW)

----- [1676] (In Lawson, William. A new orchard and garden. London, 1676. p.95-102) (Dept. Agr.)

----- [1927] (In Lawson, William. A new orchard and garden ... Reprinted from the 3d ed. London, 1927. p.109-116) (Dept. Agr.)

Altho the 1927 edition is probably reprinted verbatim from the original, its paging may not exactly correspond to that of the 3d ed., 1626, for which no full description has been found. (MFW)

Lawson's "new organ" is included in Service No. 1000, "A way to the future," London, 1881, but the exact date of the new organ is of this reprint and not available. (Rept.)

LE JARDINAGE DES OEILLETES

Le jardinage des oeillets. Paris, Imprimé chez Louis Boulanger, 1647. 249 p. (Brit. Mus.; Bib. Nat. Paris)

Definite information on this work is given by Ardène, "Traité des oeillets" (1762), p.xxxix-xl. He gives the paging, and says the author's name does not appear in the book, but the dedicatory epistle is signed with the initials "L. B." Furthermore Ardène says, l.c., p.xlvii, the treatise on this subject in Morin, "Remarques nécessaires pour la culture des fleurs", is nothing but a reprint of the above, minus its literary and moral allusions.

Altho not found in Cat. Bib. Nat. it is credited by Seguiet, p.404, to "B. R.", that is, the Bibliothèque Royale or present Bib. Nat. Paris. The work is rare. A copy formerly owned by James Douglas Sr. was discussed by R. P. Brotherston in Gard. Chron. (3) 39:97 (Feb.17,1906), but its present location is unknown. Brotherston gave enough of the contents to verify Ardène's statement that the "Traité des oeillets" in Morin's "Remarques nécessaires" is extracted from the earlier anonymous work.

Seguiet, p.404; Cat. Bib. Burette, 2:633, no. 5839; Gibault, Étude (1905), p.733; and probably also Lelong, Bib. Hist. 1:200; give title: "Le jardinage des oeillets, par L. B." But, as has been shown by Ardène, these initials are signed to the epistle and are not in the title. Inasmuch as they are the initials of the publisher, Louis Boulanger, who might naturally have written the dedication, one cannot assume that they are those of the actual author. Nevertheless, Boulanger may have been the author as well as the publisher of the book.

Several bibliographers have regarded "L. B.", not necessarily Louis Boulanger, as the author. Brit. Mus. enters under "B., L.", with queried attribution to Boulanger. Gibault, l.c., says the work is sometimes credited to Boyceau de la Baraudière, author of "Traité de la jardinage" (Paris, 1638), but inasmuch as Boyceau died before his "Traité" was issued, it seems improbable that he wrote this other work, which was published a number of years afterwards.

In trying to solve the mystery of "Le jardinage des oeillets", a great deal of contemporary literature, especially material relating to the carnation, has been searched for clues. The initials "L. B." have been carefully considered without results. There was a carnation amateur by name of Leonhardt Beer, who is credited with a "Catalogus der nelken" (Leipzig, 1662), but it seems very unlikely that he could have been the "L. B." of the present treatise.

Another work of the same period on the carnation, which has likewise never been located, is "L'oeillet triomphant", Saumur, Desbordes, 1664. This is mentioned by F. B. Sieur de l'Ecluse in his "La flore sainte" (Saumur, 1675), as another work by himself. The Sieur de l'Ecluse shows a fondness for moral and philosophical allusions probably equal to that of the author of "Le jardinage des oeillets" (fidé Ardène); but on the other hand, his knowledge of the carnation is so limited that it is doubtful whether he could have composed the practical directions of the "Traité des oeillets", as reprinted in Morin's "Remarques nécessaires".

Ardène speaks of the "Traité" only as being in the 1678 ed. of the "Remarques nécessaires"; but as a matter of fact it was included in 1667 and all subsequent eds., as shown by the entries for the "Nouvelle éd., augmentée d'un Traité des oeillets". The paging of the "Traité" has been noted in very few eds. of the "Remarques", but it has apparently been reprinted without change down thru the last known ed. of 1704.

Cat. Bib. Nat. 119:901, gives a "Traité des oeillets et de quelle façon il les faut cultiver, par P. Morin; Lyon, C. Amy, 1686" (62 p., Bourg. Authier et Barbier, 1879). This was evidently reprinted from Morin's "Remarques nécessaires" as issued by Charles Amy, Lyon, 1686, which has a section (p.93-164) with this title. From the entry in Cat. Bib. Nat. one would suppose that this had been reprinted as a rare work by Morin himself; whereas it is not rare, being found in most issues of his "Remarques", nor was it written by Morin, nor probably even edited by him, as it appears to have been included in the work only as a publisher's venture.

LE JARDINIER FIDÈLE

Le jardinier fidèle, qui enseigne la manière de semer dans toutes les saisons de l'année toute sorte de graines & plantes, tant fleurs que potagères. Paris, 1685.

Title given in full by Boehmer, Bib. Script. Hist. Nat. 3(1):688; Haller, Bib. Bot. 2:689; Miltitz, Bib. Bot. col.292; and Lelong, Bib. Hist. France, 2. éd., 1:198.

Boehmer also gives under same title an ed. of 1689, which confirms the suspicion roused by the similarity in titles, that the "Traité de la manière de semer dans toutes les saisons de l'année toutes sortes de graines & plantes", Paris, 1689 and 1710, is a later edition of "Le Jardinier fidèle". The 1689 ed. is published by De Sercy, that master of plagiarists, and the 1710 issue by his successor, Claude Prudhomme.

Lelong contributes an interesting feature in connection with the original "Jardinier", giving "Le Levre" as name of its printer or publisher. The script capitals "F" and "L" are rather easily confounded, and in case Lelong's spelling had been misprinted with an "L" instead of an "F", it is possible this work might be connected with the "Sieur de Le Febvre", a Paris seedsman who flourished in the last part of the 17th century, according to W. Roberts, Gard. Chron. (3) 71:54 (Feb.4,1922). Cat. Bib. Nat. Paris gives his "Catalogue de toutes sortes de graines, tant potagères, que légumes ... graines de fleurs et oignons de fleur", a pamphlet of 46 p., without a date. In view of De Sercy's habit of publishing without giving credit to the actual authors, it seems quite likely that (1) Le Febvre's "Catalogue" was reissued by De Sercy as "Le Jardinier fidèle"; or (2) the latter may have been a separately paged tract, to which the "Catalogue" was originally appended.

There is no connection between this work and "Le fidèle jardinier" of Pierre Betin, a collection of plates that was reissued several times between 1630 and 1650. (MFW-Mar.13,1935)

----- Traité de la manière de semer dans toutes les saisons de l'année toutes sortes de graines & plantes, tant potageres que fleurs & oignons de fleurs. Paris, Charles de Sercey, 1689. (Wageningen, K. Landb. Hoogsch. Bib.)

See Wageningen, Bul. Cat. IV (1930), no. 11, item 22773. Title and imprint from Seguiet, p. 406; work also listed by Lelong, l.c., 1:198; and Miltitz, l.c., col.293. Boehmer, l.c., as already stated, gives the earlier title: "Jardinier fidèle", with date 1689, possibly having identified the two works.

As quoted by Seguiet, the title includes the "Idée ou description d'une maison de campagne"; but latter is probably an independently paged tract as in the following, which is identical in title and probably in all other respects.

"Le Jardinier fleuriste"

The citation of this title with the imprint "Paris, 1661", in Haller, Bib. Bot. 1:512, may be due to either an error in date or confusion with a work of different title published 1661. Seguiet, Bib. Bot., p.377, gives as an imprint for the "Jardinier fleuriste" of Louis Liger, "Amsterdam, 1700", which is also probably an error, since the earliest authentic ed. was published in Paris, 1703. There is no connection between this work and "the little 'journal' of Pierre Baret, a collection of photos and was released several times between 1910 and 1920." (NYW-100,12,1920)

In view of the fact that the two women were identified by Sogutier, the title included the "idea on description" which was contained in the original report. It is probable that the two women are identical twins as in the following, which is identical in form and probably in all other respects.

bound with Henry, "Le petit economiste" (1717).

of "L'agriculture", 1717.

The citation of this title with the imprint "Paris, 1661", in Nelson, Bib. Ser. I:51, may be due to either an error in date or confusion with a work of different title published 1661. Nelson, Bib. Leyden, 1727. 172 p. (Wageningen, K. Landb. Hoogsch. Bib.)

Wageningen, Bull. Cat. IV (1930), no. 11, item 22851, enters under Langerak, Joh. Arn., and also adds note: "Eerste vervolg op de Nieuwe nauwkeurige Neederlandse hovenier". It is not, however, credited to Langerak by other bibliographers, altho it seems to have been recorded only in connection with editions of "Nieuwe nauwkeurige Neederlandse hovenier" that were issued by him. Wageningen Cat. does not state whether the "Kweekschool" of 1727 was issued as part of the other work; but there was an ed. of Leyden, 1721, published by Langerak, to which it presumably was a supplement.

Langerak was the publisher or editor of many horticultural books of this period, and may have compiled this one; but since his authorship has not been confirmed, it seems wiser to enter the work under its title.

It is cited by Linné, Hort. Cliff. as "Kweekschool der hooven en thuynen", without any hint as to its authorship. (MFW)

----- Leyden, J. A. Langerak, 1738. (Arn. Arb.)

This ed. was also noted in Burgersdijk & Niermans' list, April 1915, item 4511, in contents of "De Nieuwe en nauwkeurige Neederlandse hovenier", Leiden, 1735, to which it was probably related as a supplement. (MFW)

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and the role of the accounting department in ensuring the integrity of the financial statements. It also highlights the need for regular audits and the importance of transparency in financial reporting.

2. The second part of the document focuses on the implementation of internal controls to prevent fraud and ensure the accuracy of financial data. It outlines the key components of a robust internal control system, including segregation of duties, authorization procedures, and regular monitoring and evaluation.

3. The third part of the document addresses the challenges faced by organizations in managing their financial resources effectively. It discusses the importance of budgeting, forecasting, and financial analysis in making informed decisions and optimizing resource allocation.

4. The fourth part of the document provides a detailed overview of the accounting cycle, from the initial recording of transactions to the final preparation of financial statements. It includes a step-by-step guide to each stage of the cycle, ensuring that all necessary steps are followed to produce accurate and reliable financial information.

5. The fifth part of the document discusses the role of technology in modern accounting practices. It explores the benefits of using accounting software and digital tools to streamline processes, reduce errors, and improve the efficiency of financial reporting.

6. The sixth part of the document concludes by emphasizing the importance of ongoing education and professional development for accounting professionals. It highlights the need to stay up-to-date with the latest industry trends and regulations to ensure the highest quality of service and compliance.

LANDWIRTHSCHAFT EINES GEWANDERTEN BAUREN

Bemerkungen über baum-, weinreben- und garten-cultur, von einem geistlichen im Elsass. 1776. (Verz. Gartenb. Verein, Darmstadt (1875), p.8)

Above may be a contracted title, or it may have been expanded in the later ed., but there can be little doubt this is the same work as the following. (MFW)

----- Landwirthschaft eines gewanderten bauren, oder Oeconomisch-praktische bemerkungen über eine bessere, allgemein anwendbare baum- weinreben- und gartencultur nach vieljährigen erfahrungen von einem geistlichen Elsass. [Wien] Auf kosten des verfassers, 1795. 182 p. (Dept. Agr.; Brit. Mus.)

*Brit. Mus. Cat. 21:557 gives reference from Bohn, Gottfried Christian, to Landwirtschaft, 1795.

British Museum enters under title but attributes to "Bohn"; Dochnahl, p.90, also gives name of Bohn. Burchardt, Der Teutsche obstgärtner, 16:43 (after Neue Deut. Bib. 28:461), observes: "Verfasser soll ein emigrirter geistlicher namens Bohn seyn". *British Museum elsewhere gives "Bohn, Johann Sylvester", flourishing 1758, who appears to be a clergyman, but who probably has no connection with this work. LUSTGAERTEN UND PFLANTZUNGEN

Lustgärtē uñ pflantzungen mit wunsamer zyerde artlicher und seltzamer verymffung allerhand beüm, kreüter, plümen und früchten, wylder und heymischer, künstlich unnd lustig zü zürichten. Inhalt volgents registers. Wess sich ein hausvater mit seyner arbeyt das jar uber alle monat in sonderheit halten soll. [Augsburg, H. Steyner] 1531.

This title, from copy in U. S. Dept. Agr., is similar to, but fuller than that given by the British Museum for its edition of "Strassburg, 1530." Boehmer, Bib. Script. Hist. Nat. 3(1):671, gives two imprints of 1530: "Strasburg, Egenolph" and "Augsburg, H. Stagner." The latter is evidently identical with H. Steyner of the 1531 issue. His name, variously spelled, appears as publisher of a few other elementary or popular works of the period.

It is not known how many issues may have appeared under above title, but in 1546 the tract was reissued as "Pflantzbüchlin der lustgärten," with the rest of the title substantially as in the 1531 issue, and the added phrase: "Auss Theophrasto, Plinio, Varone, &c." The text, however, was unchanged in this issue, tho some additions were made in a succeeding one.

The contents of the tract, tho they may easily have been taken from some work on general agriculture, have not so far been identified. The book suggests the rudimentary treatise on horticulture that accompanied an early French version of Crescenzi, and originally may have been appended to some such work. The matter may have been derived from classics like the Geoponika or Scriptores rei rusticae, as intimated in the "Pflantzbüchlin" (1546), but was probably supplemented by experience and practical knowledge of gardening, tho of a very crude kind, burdened with many of the superstitious notions of the age.

One of the possibilities is that it was written to supplement a book of medical lore such as the "Regimen sanitatis." In E. S. Rohde's "Garden of herbs" (1926) there is opposite p.98 a plate credited to Platina, "De honesta voluptate" (1530). It represents a gardener at work among his plants, and is almost identical with the title vignette in the "Lustgärten" of 1531; hence it seems as if there might be some connection between the two books. The 1530 edition of Platina in the U. S. Dept. Agr. does not, however, contain any figures, and there is nothing in the contents of the work to warrant the theory that the "Lustgärten" may be related to it. A close comparison of Miss Rohde's plate with the woodcut in the "Lustgärten" shows they are not identical; but their variations suggest that either one may have been copied from the other, or both of them from some earlier original.

Whether it is a direct translation or compilation from another work, or an original, if very elementary treatise, this is at any rate the earliest independently issued German book on gardening that has thus far come to light.

(MFW-May 19,1936)

Zapf, Georg Wilhelm, "Augsburgs Buchdruckergeschichte" (Augsburg, C.A.Stage, 1788-91), 2: 197, gives date of Steyner's first edition: "Augsburg, durch Heinr. Stayner an dem v. Nov. MDXXX." U.S. Dept. Agriculture copy has colophon: "Augsburg durch Heinrich Steyner am xxi. tag Novembris des M.D.XXXI. Jars", and is therefore Steyner's second issue. I have no data for the date of Egenolf's edition, Strasburg, 1530, to show whether it antedates that of Steyner issued in the same year. (MFW-2/21/49)

Boehmer, Bib. Script. Hist. Nat. 3(1);671, enters two imprints of above date: "Strasburg, Egenolph", and "Augsburg, H. Stagner", latter evidently being identical with "H. Steyner" of the following edition. Burchardt, Der Teutsche obstgärtner, 16:49, also records the Augsburg, 1530, imprint.

----- Lustgärte un pflantzungen mit wunsamer zyerde artlicher und seltzamer verympfung allerhand beüm, kreüter, plümen und früchten, wylder und heymischer, künstlich unnd lustig zü zürichten. Title is herewith given in full, as it differs in spelling from that of Brit. Mus. Cat., and is more complete.

Title vignette of a gardener at work in his garden is identical with an illustration from Platina, "De honesta voluptate" (1530), given by Miss E. S. Rohde in her "A garden of herbs" (1926), plate facing p.98.

----- Pflantzbüchlin der lustgärten, mit wunnsamer zierde artlicher nutzbaren und seltzamen impfung allerhand bäum, kreuter, blümen und früchten, wilder und heymischer, künstlich und lustig zü zurichten. Altho the title is changed, and there is a new vignette, the text of this issue is practically identical with that of Augsburg, 1531. (MFW)

1. The first part of the report discusses the general situation of the country and the progress of the work. It also mentions the results of the survey and the conclusions drawn from it.

2. The second part of the report deals with the specific details of the work, including the methods used, the data collected, and the analysis of the results.

10. The tenth part of the report discusses the implications of the study for the future of the country and the role of the government in the development process. It also mentions the need for a comprehensive reform of the legal system and the establishment of a judicial council.

----- Franckfurt, Bei C. F. Egen. erben, M.D.LXIIII
(1564). 80 ff. 16cm. (Dept. Agr.)

Title and text as in 1546 edition, with addition of: "Bawren practica, oder Wetterbüchlin, wie mann die witterung durch das gantze jar erlernen und erfahren mag, von jar zu jar werende".

This issue has many small woodcuts, which, according to Gustav Focke, Ant.-Kat. 615, no. 53, are by Hans Weiditz.

Dept. Agr. copy is bound with German translation of Geoponika, "Der Veldbaw" (1563).

Cited by Boehmer, Bib. Script. Hist. Nat. 3(1):673, after Rohr, Haushaltungs-Bib., and by Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.285, as "Pflanzenbüchlein". Beside the copy quoted by Focke, l.c., this edition has been offered by Poppe, Ant.-Kat. 45, item 9, and Seuffer und Willi, Kat. 12, item 251.

----- Franckfurt a. M., 1570. (Güntz, Handb. Landw. Litt. 1:109; Miltitz, l.c.)

Title is practically same as that of 1564.

----- [Later editions?]

Miltitz, l.c., records two later editions under title: "Pflanzenbüchlein": Basel, 1612, and Magdeburg, 1702. And, also as an edition of the same work, Miltitz gives "Büchlein von mancherley lustgärten", Strassburg, 1580. The latter is cited by Boehmer, l.c., 3(1):674, after Rohr, Haushaltungs-Bib. Boehmer, 3(1):673, also gives the editions of 1612 and 1702; also "Nützliches pflanzbüchlein von mancherley lustgärten, pffropfungen, bäumen, kräutern ... zum achten mal übersehen" (St. Anneberg, 1725). While Boehmer does not indicate the relationships of these works, the form of the titles suggests that those of 1580 and 1725 may belong to the Domitzer series, while the rest cannot surely be assigned to either Domitzer or the "Lustgärten und pflantzungen". Boehmer enters under G. de Nyverd, but latter was probably the printer rather than the author. This may have been one of the issues of "Quatre traictez utiles et delectables de l'agriculture" (q.v.), including the works of Gorgole de Corne, David Brossard, and Nicolas du Mesnil; or it may be one of these individual tracts. 1. The first of these is the fact that the Commission has not yet received any information from the Government of the United Kingdom regarding the proposed amendments to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) which were adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations in December 1979.

(1) The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the cold, crisp air. It felt like a blanket after a long, hot journey. The ground below was a patchwork of green fields and small villages, looking so peaceful and quiet. I took a deep breath, feeling the cool air fill my lungs. It was a strange feeling, being so close to the earth after so long in the sky. I looked up at the vast blue sky, dotted with a few wispy clouds. The sun was shining brightly, casting a warm glow over everything. I felt a sense of freedom and adventure, knowing that I was about to embark on a journey that would change my life. The plane began to descend, and I felt a slight lurch as it touched down. The wheels hit the runway, and the plane slowed to a stop. I stepped out of the plane, feeling the ground beneath my feet. It was a new world, a new adventure, and I was ready for it.

Miscellanies on ancient and modern gardening, and on the scenery of nature. London, Printed for the author, and sold by J. Walter, 1785. 126 p. (Dept. Agr.)

This appears to be absolutely anonymous, but has often been attributed to Samuel Felton, the author of "Gleanings on gardens" (1829) and "On the portraits of English authors on gardening" (1828, 2d ed. 1830). Johnson, Hist. Eng. Gard. treats the "Miscellanies" as anonymous, but under Felton's works (p.245-246), refers to him as a "literary sexagenarian." If this implies he was then in his sixties, he would have been rather young at the time the "Miscellanies" were published. Without conclusive proof of his authorship of this work, we hesitate to accept it.

Moreover, Henry Cork advertised in 1931, Cat. 9, item 361, a copy of the "Elements of modern gardening", together with the "Miscellanies on ancient and modern gardening" (1785). The "Elements" is doubtfully credited by the Brit. Mus. to J. Trusler, with the queried date 1800. But Johnson (p.244) treats the "Elements" as anonymous, and definitely assigns its date as 1784. Finding these two anonymous works, very close in date and on kindred topics, bound together, suggests that the "Elements of modern gardening" and "Miscellanies on ancient and modern gardening" might well have been written by one person, possibly Trusler, Felton, or quite another. It seems possible that if by Felton, they may have been mentioned in reviews of his works published about 1829 or 1830. (MFW- 3/2/49)

An article, "On the walled garden", by F. M. Graves, Gard. Chron. (3) 65:105-106 (Mar.8,1919), consists of portions translated from above work, t.2, p.43 et seq. Graves says it was composed between June 1392 and Sept. 1394, and consists of pious and moral precepts, instructions on the care of house and garden, games, amusements &c., written for the benefit of a young wife.

it is likely the "Nachricht" of 1773-74 is the original edition of his work. (MFW)

DER NEU-ANKOMMENDE HOLLÄNDISCHE GAERTNER

Der Neu-ankommende holländische gärtner; oder, Gründlicher und deutlicher unterricht, wie die holländische blumenzwiebel, als tulipen, hyacinthen, narcissen, jonquillen, irides, martagons, ranunculin, anemonen &c. &c. in unserm Ober-Teutschland am sichersten zu pflanzen, zu warten und zu vermehren sind. Nürnberg, 1729. (Seguier, p.408)

The title of the work as given above is taken from the Dept. Agr. copy of 1731. Seguier calls it "Der Holländische gärtner, oder Gründlicher und deutlicher unterricht" etc. This may be the complete title for the first edition, which has not been found except in Seguier, l.c.; but the three different issues are satisfactorily identified by the dedication found in those of 1731 and 1737, which is dated Jan. 2, 1729.

The book was evidently compiled by some member of the house of "Allmannstein", as the dedication to "Dem Herrn Carlen Gotharden von Allmannstein, Herrn auf Böhmischen Wolessa", is signed: "Meines werthisten Herrn bruders gantz ergebener treuer vetter und bruder".

The work does not seem to be a mere translation of another, but may derive some of its material from Oosten's "Nieuwe nederlandse bloemhof" (1700), which in its turn depended largely on the "Nouvelle instruction pour la culture des fleurs" (Amsterdam, 1697 et seq.). The "Neu-ankommende holländische gärtner" is not, however, a mere piracy. (MFW)

----- Nürnberg, J. G. Lochner, 1731. 216 p. (Dept. Agr.)

Pages 135-216 have special t.-p.: "Einfältige jedoch gründliche anweisung wie man die zwerg- und hochstämmige bäume pflanzen, beschneiden und versetzen solle: ingleichen wie pommerantzen- und citronen-bäume ... zu warten und fortzubringen sind ... Nebst einer zugabe: oranien bäume aus ihren blättern zu erziehen". According to Burchardt, Der Teutsche obstgärtner, 16: 124 (quoting Rohr, Haushaltungs-Bib., p.373), a work of this title was published Nürnberg, 1711, tho this date might be an error for 1731. This "Anweisung" is possibly borrowed from Dahuron, La Quintinie, Mandirola, Merlet, or other contemporary works. (MFW)

----- Nürnberg, J. G. Lochner, 1737. 216 p. (N.Y. Bot. Gard.)

Apparently identical with the preceding ed.

Der Neu vermehrte, curieuse und kluge gärtner, das ist: Ausführliche einleitung wie ein guter baum-, blumen- und küchengarten anzulegen u. dgl., wobey zum 2ten ein nützlicher unterricht, woraus die künftige witterung und veränderung derselben abzunehmen, und (3) ein heilsames kräuterbuch, aus eigner erfahrung aufgesetzt. Zelle, 1692. (Boehmer, Bib. Script. Hist. Nat. 3(1):692; Burchardt, Teutscher obstgärtner, 15:384; Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.293)

Titles in Burchardt and Miltitz differ from above, but undoubtedly refer to same work. Miltitz gives place of publication as Leipzig.

----- Mit neuen anmerkungen und register vermehrt und zum andern druck befördert durch I. F. H. Leipzig, H. I. [H. F.] Hoffmann, 1695. (Boehmer, l.c.; Burchardt, l.c.; Mayer, Pomona Franconica, 1:lxix)

Mayer credits to "J. F. H.", evidently same as Boehmer's "I. F. H.", with imprints: Zelle, 1690; Leipzig, 1629 [i.e. 1692]; Leipzig, 1695. No issue of 1690 is given by other bibliographers; but the first edition of René Dahuron's "Traité de la tailler des arbres" came out at Celle, 1690; and there is a strong presumption that the "Kluger gärtner" may have some connection with the later "Wohlbestellte gartenbau" credited to Dahuron. This was published Leipzig, H. F. Hoffmann, 1705, with a title which strongly resembles that of the "Kluger gärtner" of 1692. (MFW)

DE NIEUWE EN NAAUWKEURIGE NEEDERLANDSE HOVENIER

De nieuwe en naauwkeurige neederlandse hovenier, onderwijssende hoe hier te lande, onder dit klimaat een tuin, met zijn parken, paaden, glintingen en heiningen wel sal aangeleid, en de boomen aan deese moeten geplant, gesnoeid, aangebonde en onderhouden werden. En op wat wijze men onvrugtbare boomen, 't sy karrel- of steenvrugten vrugtbaar maken ... Alles door de reeden en de ondervindingen van meer als vijftig jaaren herwaarte bevestigt. Leyden, 1713. (Burgersdijk & Niermans, April 1915, no.3933; Haller, 2: 114; Miltitz, col.296)

None of these entries give title as fully as above, which is quoted from copy of the following edition. Miltitz, l.c., gives 286 p., which may correspond to the 276 numbered plus 10 unnumbered pages of the "Tweede druk", 1716.

Cat. Bib. Nat. Paris enters the 4th ed., 1721, under Du Vivier, Jean, treating it as an edition of "De nieuwe nederlandse bloemhof" of Hendryck van Oosten. Cat. Bib. Nat. does not refer these to Oosten. Du Vivier was publisher of Oosten's 1st ed., 1700, and of the French translation in 1714; also of the 2d ed. of "De Nieuwe en naauwkeurige neederlandse hovenier" in 1716; but there is no evident relation between these works.

Haller, Bib. Bot. 2:114, says this book is a version of La Quintinie, with some notes applicable to cultivation in the Netherlands. But while its contents are probably derived from other and more important publications of the day, the book does not seem to be translated directly from any other well known work.

According to certain records the "Oeffening en regte behandeling aangaande het bebouwen der moes-thuynen" (1718 et seq.), and "Kweekschool voor liefhebbers der hooven en thuynen" (1727; 1738), were issued as supplements to this work; but it is not clear with which editions they belonged; hence they have been treated separately. The "Oeffening" is designated as "Tweede deel", and the "Kweekschool" as "Eerste vervolg" of the "Nieuwe ... neederlandse hovenier". (MFW)

Wageningen, Bull. Cat. IV (1930), no.11, item 22631, enters under Langerak, Joh. Arn., who is pretty certainly the publisher. A copy of this edition offered by Burgersdijk & Niermans, April 1915, item 4511, included the "Kweek-school voor liefhebbers der hooven en thuynen" (Leyden, 1738), probably issued as a supplement to this edition of the "Neederlandse hovenier". Latter is sometimes called "Tweede druk", possibly meaning 2d issue of Langerak's edition, 1721. (MFW)

It is noted that the above information was obtained from a review of the files of the FBI, New York Office, dated 10-1-68.

According to certain records the "offending" or "regio containing language not deemed law-abiding" (1918 et seq.), and "Knoedel" (1917) were issued as supplements to this work; and it is not clear with which edition they are linked; hence they have been treated separately. The "offending" is designated as "Knoedel" and the "Knoedel" as "Knoedel" and the "Knoedel" as "Knoedel".

Jacob, l.c., says this contains full details

sible this was a changed title for the "Nouvelle more likely to be a garbled issue of La Chesnée

NOUVEAU TRAITE DE LA CULTURE DES MELONS

Nouveau traité de la culture des melons. Sous un climat tel qu'est des Provinces Unies. Amsterdam, H. Desbordes, 1697. 8 p. (With La Quintinie, Jean de. Instruction pour les jardins fruitiers et potagers. 2. éd. Amsterdam, 1697. Tome 2) (Dept. Agr. &c.)

Owing to the fact that it received wide distribution with editions of the "Instruction" of La Quintinie, this treatise has generally been erroneously attributed to him. Evelyn, however, in his English translation of La Quintinie, "The compleat gard'ner" (1693), includes instructions for "The raising of melons, omitted in the French editions". These had been received in a letter from La Quintinie himself, and are similar to those printed in Phil. Trans. Roy. Soc. London, 1669, but entirely different from the "Nouveau traité". The latter, as indicated by its title, and still further in the note under next entry, was intended for use in the Low Countries, and was not of Parisian origin. Nevertheless, it was included in subsequent editions of La Quintinie, and usually paged consecutively with the other contents, as Paris, P. Ribou, 1716, t.2, p.529-534; and Paris, Quillau, 1739, t.2, p.555-560. Altho this tract on melon culture is generally associated with editions of La Quintinie, or garbled works derived from them, it is found to have an entirely different origin, as shown in the following:

----- Nouveau traité de la culture des melons sous un climat tel qu'est celui des Dix-Sept Provinces. (In Dahuron, René. Traité de la taille des arbres. Cell et Liege, J. F. Broncart, 1699. p.127-142) (Dept. Agr.)

Altho the issue of 1699 is the earliest that has been indexed, it is likely that the previous edition of Dahuron, Liege, 1692, which has exactly the same paging, must also include it; and if we accept the entry of Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col. 293, for the first edition, Celle, 1690, including the treatise on melon culture in its title, the latter is at least as old as the first edition of La Quintinie. In the 1699 edition of Dahuron, it is said to be by a person of as much, if not more, experience in that line, as anyone in the Low Countries. It should be said, however, that while Dahuron's book was certainly published as early as 1690, it is not certain whether its form was the same as in the later editions of 1692 and 1699.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied. In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula

where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula

where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula

where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula

where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula

where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula

where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula

where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . NOUVEAU TRAITE DE LA CULTURE DES MELONS (cont.)

The work was translated into German and into Dutch, probably from the treatise that appeared with La Quintinie in 1697 rather than that with Dahuron, 1692 (or maybe 1690?). No doubt there are various editions of each, but the following will suffice for illustration.

----- [German] Neuer tractat von dem melonen-bau.
(In Neue garten-lust ... Heinrich Hessens Garten-lust anderer theil aus der französischen sprache in die hochteutsche übersetzt. Leipzig, J. L. Gleditsch, 1705. p.309-317). (Dept. Agr., &c.)

This was issued in part 2 of Hesse, Heinrich, "Neue gartenlust" (Leipzig, 1703), but has nothing to do with Hesse. The principal feature of Theil 2s is the "Neue unterweisung zu dem blumenbau", a German translation of the "Nouvelle instruction pour la culture des fleurs", which first appeared in the Amsterdam, 1697, edition of La Quintinie. Apparently the tract on melon culture was included in all later issues of the "Neue unterweisung", 1712, 1734, and 1737.

----- [Dutch] Verhandelning over de aankweeking der meloenen. (In Oosten, Hendryck van. De naauwkeurige bloemist, of De nieuwe nederlandsche bloemhof. 7. verm. druk. Amsterdam, W. Brave, junior [1792?] p.269-285) (Dept. Agr., &c.)

This seems to be based on the work as issued with La Quintinie, 1697, but possibly augmented from some other source. These instructions are not found in the original edition of Van Oosten, 1700, nor in the first English (1703) or first French (1714) translations of his book. So far as can be learned at present, they first appear in the edition of Leyden, 1728, with title "De naauwkeurige bloemist" etc.

See also bibliographical notes on La Quintinie's works on melon culture, under La Quintinie, Jean de, p.413b of the present bibliography.

"This work has been incorrectly attributed to Goube, author of a later work of the same title, published Cambray, 1769, which refers to the earlier book, but bears no resemblance to it. The author of the present treatise, represented by initials L. C. B. M., is unknown." Cf. Dept. Agr. printed card for this edition.

----- Paris, C. de Sercy, 1698. 164 p. (Bib. Nat. Paris; Bib. Le Mans)

Cat. Bib. Nat. 62:786, gives 164 p., but this probably includes the unnumbered ~~red~~ paging, making this issue precisely like that of 1678. Cat. Bib. Le Mans 2 (Sci. & Arts):207, does not give pages.

----- Paris, C. de Sercy [170-?] (Seguier, p.406)

Seguier indicates an edition about or after 1700, but cannot refer to the work of Goube, not published till after Seguier's death. This date seems a little doubtful. 1698 is about as late an imprint as we find for De Sercy; after 1700 the works that had formerly been issued by him often have the imprint of Claude Prudhomme. The latter may have printed this work on De Sercy's privilege, or Seguier may be in error. (MFW)

An anonymous compilation of material from a half dozen general and special contemporary works on floriculture. It was first published with the "Dernière édition" of La Quintinie as above, and consequently has often been credited to him. The 1700 issue was announced in Acta Eruditorum, Aug. 1700, p.384, as the work of La Quintinie. It is included in most editions of his "Instruction", but after 1700 was usually paged consecutively with the other contents of Tome 2, and the title was altered, becoming "Traité de la culture des fleurs" in the edition of P. Ribou, Paris, 1716, t.2, p.385-528; and "De la culture des fleurs" in the edition of Quillau, Paris, 1739, t.2, p. 359-554, with possibly other variations in title.

The 2d ed. of the condensed Italian version of Dahuron is said to be enlarged by the "Istruzione ... della M. della Quintinye", meaning of course the "Nouvelle instruction pour la culture des fleurs" that has been attributed to La Quintinie because it was originally published in the Paris, 1695, issue of his "Instruction pour les jardins fruitiers et potagers". It probably appeared in all the later issues of this Italian translation of Dahuron. Its contents are evidently much condensed. (MFW)

An Olde thrift newly revived, wherein is declared the manner of planting, preserving and husbanding yong trees of divers kinds for timber and fuell ... By R. C. London, W. S. for Richard Moore, 1612. (Brit. Mus.)

Brit. Mus. Cat. enters under "Ch., R.", with note stating that preface is subscribed "R. Ch." Both Cecil, p.349, and Martyn, p.xxi, give initials "R. C." Seguer, p.404, gives "R. Ch.", and Haller, 1:412, thinks this work same as the "Dialogue concerning planting of trees and other parts of agriculture", by R. Ch. The author's identity is in considerable doubt: McDonald, p. 202, frankly enters the work under Churton, R., while a copy sold by Sotheby from the library of the late William Paul (Gard. Chron. (3) 38:405), was definitely credited to "R. Chambers". There is also a possibility that it may have been by the Robert Child who is thought by some to have been the actual author of Hartlib's "Legacie of husbandry" (1651). The publisher's name is taken from Cecil, Hist. Gard. Eng., 2d ed., p.349.

Haller enters under Philipp Friedrich Gmelin, and says the work has a preface by J. H. G. von Justi. It is not the same as the "Oekonomische schriften" (1760), by Johann Heinrich Gottlob von Justi.

C. H. Payne, in The Garden, 84:357 (July 17, 1920), refers to a "probably unique" copy advertised in Cat. 223 of Messrs. Myers. Payne found the title only in Lady Cecil's Hist. Gard. Eng., and queried whether it might not be a reprint or reissue of some earlier publication of similar title, tho he thought it was probably not related to William Lawson's "New orchard and garden".

The entire text is reprinted in Jour. Pomol. 2:246-261 (Aug.1921), with a reproduction of the title-page on p.247, and an introductory note (by E. A. Bunyard?), on p.246.

Müllern, 1714. 142, 195 p. (Dept. Agr.)

Theil II has separate t.-p.: "Horticultura, das ist: Kurtze anleitung, und wohlmeynend mitgetheilte selbst-erfahrung, wie die bäume in schöner ordnung zu pflantzen", etc. Theil III, with separate t.-p.: "Kraut- und küchen-garte", is paged consecutively with theil II.

This book is noted by Haller, Bib. Bot., 2: 120; Dochnahl, Bib. Hort., p.117; and Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col. 297, each giving several eds.

The editions of 1724 and 1747 are mentioned by Hirschfeld, Garten-Kal. 1782, p.71, in connection with Adelkofer, Marquart, "Gründliche garten-schul", 1778, which Hirschfeld says is a mere plagiarism of the "Parnassus".

Verz. Darmstadt spells title: "Parnassia hortensia". Altho the title may vary, this is not found in other authorities, and is probably a typographical error. (MFW)

"Pflantzbüchlein"; "Pflanzbüchlein"; "Pflanzenbüchlein" &c.

There are many citations such as these in old bibliographies; some probably garbled or incomplete titles for works incapable of identification; others short titles for works already entered under author, or, if anonymous, referred to their earliest recorded form. Adm.

Pflantzbüchlein. 1529 et seq. See Domitzer, Johann.

Title was "Ein neues pflantz büchlein" until 1534. "Newes" being omitted in the 1547 edition. In 1682 the word "Lustgärten" appears in the title, leading to confusion with the "Lustgärten und pflantzungen"; but there is no apparent connection between the two works.

Pflanzbüchlein, ("Voigts"). Breslau, 1541. (Boehmer, Bib. Script. Hist. Nat. 3(1):671)

Possibly one of the issues of Domitzer, or may be related to "Voigts Gartenbüchlein". See also Knab, Michael. Hortipomilegium (1620).

Pflanzenbüchlein. Basel, 1612; Magdeburg, 1702. (Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.295; Boehmer, 3(1):673)

This spelling in Miltitz; Boehmer has "Pflanzbüchlein". These have been referred tentatively to "Lustgärten und pflantzungen"; but it is just as probable that they are eds. of Domitzer.

Pflanzbüchlein, (Nützliches), von mancherley lust gärten, ppropffungen, bäumen, kräutern. St. Anneberg, 1725. (Boehmer, 3(1):673)

Most likely one of the issues of Domitzer.

The Pleasure of princes or Gardeners recreations. London, 1615. (Haller, Bib. Bot. 1:418)

It seems likely that Haller's title was based on "The pleasures of princes, or Good mens recreations ... London, J. Norton for H. Taunton, 1635". The latter, in Brit. Mus. Cat., is credited, with a query, to Gervase Markham. It is concerned with angling, cock fighting, and the like, but seems to have nothing to do with gardening. (MFW)

PROMÉNADES OU ITINÉRAIRE

Proménades ou Itinéraire des jardins de Chantilly ... orné d'un plan et de vingt estampes qui en représentent les principales vues, dessinées et gravées par Mérigot. Paris, Desenne [etc.]; Chantilly, M. Hédouin, 1791. 60 p. 20 pl. (N. Y. Pub. Lib.; Bib. Nat. Paris; Brit. Mus.)

Cat. Bib. Nat. 60:946, has entry under Girardin, Stanislas-Cécile-Xavier-Louis, vicomte d'Ermenonville, comte de Girardin, but adds name of René-Louis de Girardin in brackets in title. Brit. Mus. enters under "Chantilly", with reference from "Mérigot, J.", but gives no reference from Girardin, altho it lists other works under his name. Brunet lists the title, but does not give any author. Barbier, Dict. Ouvr. Anon. 3: 1083, gives "Par Mérigot" in curves, as if this information had been supplied, whereas it is a part of the title in the copy seen at the N. Y. Public Library. Larousse, Grand Dict. Univ. does not mention this title among the works of Stanislas de Girardin. It may have been given under him as owner of the estate. (MFW)

Proménades ou Itinéraire des jardins d'Ermenonville, auquel on a joint vingt-cinq de leurs principales vues, dessinées & gravées par Mérigot fils. Paris, Mérigot père [etc.]; Ermenonville, Murray, 1788. 68 p. 25 pl. (N. Y. Pub. Lib.; Brit. Mus.)

Privilege, p.67, refers to the work as "par M* ", undoubtedly referring to the plates by Mérigot fils. Barbier, 4:1080-81; Quérard, 3: 369; both credit to Girardin, Stanislas-Cécile-Xavier-Louis, comte de, under different forms of his name. Brit. Mus. enters under "Ermenonville", referring from "Mérigot, J.", but not from Girardin. There is no definite proof of Girardin's authorship, and it is likely that, as in case of the preceding work, this was entered under him as proprietor of Ermenonville. (MFW)

QUATRE TRAICTEZ UTILES ET DELECTABLES DE L'AGRICULTURE

Quatre traictez utiles et delectables de l'agriculture.
Paris, G. Corrozet, 1560. 127 ff. (Bib. Nat. Paris)

The title is here given briefly, as it corresponds pretty closely, save for details of spelling, with that of the next edition, which has been cataloged with great care; hence its title is quoted in full.

This edition noted from Cat. Bib. Nat. 62:321, under Corne, Gorgole de. The work also appears in Graesse, Trésor des livres rares et précieux, 3:119, under "Gorgole de Corn", with a reference from the title. The name of the printer is not given by Graesse, nor by Haller, 1:324. Seguier, Bib. Bot., p.403, gives the imprint of Corrozet.

A copy of the work has been quoted by Dulau & Co., Cat. 88 (1921), item 2711, at 2 pounds, 2 shillings. The printer's name was not given, so it may have been of the following edition.

There is a critical discussion of this book by Dupetit-Thouars, in Michaud, Biographie universelle, Nouv. éd., 6:611-612, under Brossard, David.

Beside miscellaneous critical notes kept in a separate file, a good deal of information regarding this work is given in connection with the individual tracts brought together, probably for the first time, by Corrozet. The paging of the contents, according to the next issue, runs as follows:

[Traicté des arbres sauvages], without individual t.-p., ff.1-39; "Traicté de la maniere d'enter, planter & nourrir arbres selon nostre climat ... par maistre Gorgole de Corne [Gregorio dei Corno], ff.40-81; "Traicté de la maniere de semer et faire pepinieres de sauvageaux, enter de toutes sortes d'arbres, & faire vergers ... par Frere Dany [David Brossard], ff.82-116; "Traicté extraict par Nicolas du Mesnil ... [de] la science d'enter, planter, nourrir & garder fruictz, vignes, poires, pommes, & autres, en plusieurs & diverses manieres", ff.117-127.

----- Quatre traictez utiles et delectables de l'agriculture. Le premier traicte de la maniere de plâter, arracher, labourer, semer & emonder les arbres sauvages, bois hault & bois taillis. Le secôd de la maniere d'enter, planter & nourrir arbres & jardins, par Gorgole de Corne Florentin. Le tiers, de la maniere de semer, & faire pepinieres de sauvageaux, enter de toutes sortes d'arbres & faire vergers, par F. Dany religieux de l'abbaye S. Vincent pres du Mans. Le quart, de l'art d'enter, planter & coltiver jardins, avec la table des choses principales y contenues. Paris, Charles l'Angelier, 1560. 127 ff. (Dept. Agr.; N. Y. Soc. Lib.)

Altho both editions were printed in the same year, this is pretty certainly the later of the two, as shown by the following: (1) the phrase "Nouvellement veuz & corrigez" might mean that the four tracts, which had all been previously printed, were revised in this collected form; but, as it is not given in Cat. Bib. Nat., it probably indicates that this is a new edition; (2) the privilege, dated 20. Jan. 1559, on verso of title, permits Gilles Corrozet of Paris to print and sell this work; and it is reasonable to assume that he had already published it before transferring his right to L'Angelier.

Inasmuch as they have the same collation, it is likely that these two editions of same date are identical save in details such as spelling.

Dept. Agr. copy is a photostat from that of the N. Y. Society Library, and the latter is one of the books in the collection that formerly belonged to John Winthrop, Jr. (1606-1676)

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of satisfying our curiosity about the past, but also a means of training the mind and of developing the character. It is through the study of history that we learn the lessons of the past and are enabled to avoid the mistakes of our predecessors. The author also emphasizes the importance of the study of the history of the United States, particularly in the light of the fact that the country is now approaching the centennial of its independence. It is suggested that a knowledge of the history of the United States is essential for a full understanding of the country and for the development of a sound policy for the future.

3. The third part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of satisfying our curiosity about the past, but also a means of training the mind and of developing the character. It is through the study of history that we learn the lessons of the past and are enabled to avoid the mistakes of our predecessors. The author also emphasizes the importance of the study of the history of the United States, particularly in the light of the fact that the country is now approaching the centennial of its independence. It is suggested that a knowledge of the history of the United States is essential for a full understanding of the country and for the development of a sound policy for the future.

The phrase "Vermeerdert en vernieuwd" in the title of the 2d ed. is apparently omitted from the 3d. The similarity in titles suggests that this may be the 2d ed. of the "Register van peeren, appelen &c." (Haarlem, 1713), credited by Haller, 2:114, to Kaspar Eylder, or possibly of the "Register van alle de soorten der voornaamste vrugten" (Leyden, 1703; 1715), of Hendryck van Oosten. (MFW)

Samenspraeck tusschen Waermondts en Gaergoedts, nopende de opkomste ende ondergangh van Flora. Haerlem, 1637. 24 p. (Bib. K. Landb. Hoogsch. Wageningen)

Wageningen, Bull. Cat. IV (1930), no.11, item 23155, inserts "Door A. Roman" in brackets in the title. Solms-Laubach, "Weizen und tulpe" (1899), p.113, enters this and the two following with the collective title: "T'Samenspraecken tusschen Waermondts ende Gaergoedts," and imprint: "Ghedrukt te Haerlem by Adriaen Roman anno 1637." Jacob, Rept. Tulip Nomenclature Com. (1917), p.146, also gives the title in plural form. Probably these tracts were originally separate but were soon reprinted with a common titlepage. Adriaen Roman may have been both author and publisher. (MFW)

----- 2. druk. Amstelredam, 1643. (Wageningen, Bull. Cat., l.c., items 23159-23161)

Wageningen Cat. enters this also as three separate works, each being 2d ed. and all having the same imprint; but Haller, Bib. Bot. 1:467; Jacob, l.c.; and Solms-Laubach, l.c., all cite with collective title. None of these authorities mentions the name of the printer or publisher. This issue has appended the tract: "Floraes sotte bollen afgemalt in dichten en sangen &c."

Wageningen Cat., l.c., item 23158, says the labelling of this as 2d ed. is incorrect, since the actual 2d ed. is that of 1643. Wageningen Cat. credits this as well as the preceding entries under this title, to Adriaen Roman. This edition has continuous paging, but each "Samenspraek," "Floraes sotte-bollen," and "Troost-brief," all have special title-pages.

Short instructions, very profitable and necessary for all those who delight in gardening, translated out of French into English. London, Printed by John Wolfe, 1592. (Cecil, 2d ed., p.337; Johnson, p.70)

Johnson gives title: "Short instructions for gardening and grafting, with diverse plotts and knotts for gardeners," with the date 1591; but this is not confirmed by other bibliographers and seems likely to be an error.

C. H. Payne, in Card. Chron. (3) 63:216 (May 25, 1918), says he has never been able to trace this to its French original. Lady Cecil states that the "copy belonging to the Earl of Crewe is probably unique." If this is the case, the work may never have been carefully studied. It may have been derived, by way of Du Mesnil or some previous French translator, from Crescenzi's chapters on gardening, or from those brief tracts on the subject that were appended to the earliest French versions of Crescenzi's work.

"Der Sorgfältige haushalter"

There are several works of this or similar title, possibly related, possibly not. The earliest seems to be one published at Osnabrück, 1674, by J. G. Schwänder, with a preface by him, whence it appears that he is also its author. According to Güntz, Handb. Landw. Litt. 1:127, an apparently new edition was published at Osnabrück, 1677, by Schwänder, who stated therein that it had already been published three years earlier (i.e., in 1674), but had been pirated by Fried. Schultes, who brought it out at Nördlingen in 1677 as the "Schauplatz" of Johann Jakob Agricola. Inasmuch as the latter consists of four parts (See Güntz, l.c., 1:126), only two of which are on gardening, it looks as if it could not have been entirely derived from Schwänder's slender volume. There is also a "Sorgfältige haushalter, bestehend in einem baum-, küchen- und blumengarten, recorded by Burchardt, Der Teutsche obstgärtner, 15:391, with the date 1687, which may be an edition of Schwänder's work. But "J. P. L. Sorgfältiger hausvater" of Haller, Bib. Bot. 1:628, and the "Sorgfältiger hausvater und geschäftige Martha" (Magdeburg, 1684), are more probably editions of J. J. Becher's "Der kleine sorgfältige haushalter nebst der geschäftige Marta," which, according to Güntz, 1:137, was also published by Schwänder at Osnabrück, 1677. Inasmuch as Güntz had actually seen all three works, published in the same year, 1677, it is not likely that he has confused them. The work by Becher seems to begin a new series. "Der kleine sorgfältige haushalter nebst der geschäftige Marta" was issued in 1677, 1710, and possibly 1684; while in 1710 there was a "Kluger hauss-vater, verständige hauss-mutter" that is also credited to Becher, and which was reissued in 1738, 1747, 1755, and possibly other years. (MFW-Mar.28,1935)

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also highlights the need for transparency and accountability in all financial dealings.

The second part of the document outlines the specific procedures for recording transactions. It details the steps involved in the accounting process, from the initial recording of a transaction to the final reconciliation of accounts. The document also provides guidance on the use of accounting software and the importance of regular backups.

The third part of the document discusses the role of internal controls in ensuring the accuracy and reliability of financial information. It describes various control measures, such as segregation of duties, authorization requirements, and regular audits, and explains how these measures can help to minimize the risk of errors and fraud.

The fourth part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed in the previous sections. It reiterates the importance of accurate record-keeping, proper accounting procedures, and effective internal controls, and encourages all staff to adhere to these standards in their daily work.

The document concludes with a statement of the organization's commitment to maintaining the highest standards of financial integrity and transparency. It expresses the organization's confidence in the effectiveness of the measures outlined in the document and its commitment to ongoing improvement.

Paris, Lamy, 1782. 187 p. (Arn. Arb.)

Arn. Arb. Cat. 1:696, does not give the publisher's name, which is supplied from Cat. Bib. Decaisne (1883), p.295, no.1836. Latter enters under Dupetit-Thouars; but Cat. Bib. Nat. Paris does not give this title under Aubert Dupetit-Thouars, author of numerous botanical and pomological works, who moreover, seems to have published nothing prior to 1792.

Altho the date of the "Traité" falls within the period of P. J. Buc'hoz, and its title has a certain resemblance in style and phraseology to many of his, it is not found in any list of his works that has been examined.

There is reason to suppose this a mere publisher's fraud. Other books issued by Lamy at about this time have been found to be reprints of earlier works published anonymously; and this may be a reissue of the "Traitté de la culture des orangers, citronniers, grenadiers & oliviers" (Paris, C. de Sercy, 1676 & 1678), perhaps supplemented from other sources. (MFW)

Cat. Bib. Decaisne enters under "Merlet et St. Etienne." This may signify a reprint of Merlet, "L'abrégé des bons fruits" (1667), together with Saint-Etienne, "Instruction pour connoistre les bons fruits" (1660), both of which were originally issued without the author's name. It has been found that Lamy, publisher of this book, got out reprints of other early anonymous works with new titles, such as the "Traité des fleurs qui se cultivent en hiver" (1782), which is evidently a reissue of Guérineau de Saint-Péravi, "Traité de la culture de différentes fleurs," which was originally published anonymously in 1765. We also find a "Traité complet de la culture du figuier," published by Lamy in 1782, which proves to be a plagiarism of the "Nouvelle instruction facile pour la culture des figuiers" (1692). See also notes in the present bibliography under: Lamy (publisher). (MFW)

Traité de la culture des orangers, citronniers, grenadiers et oliviers. Paris, 1676. (Arn. Arb.; Brit. Mus.)
Brit. Mus. gives under "Traité"; Seguiet, Bib.
Bot., p.399, under "Vautier, N." (i.e. François), together with the latter's "Instruction pour les arbres fruitiers" of the same date. This attribution, however, is probably due to the grouping of several works under the same privilege, which gives no clue to actual authorship.

The name of the publisher of this edition is not found; but it was almost certainly Charles de Sercey, who issued the following, very likely identical with this, in 1678. (MFW)

----- Paris, Charles de Sercey, 1678. (Quaritch, Cat. 409, p.97, item 1452)

Grouped with a "Traité des tulipes" of same date, and other anonymous titles. This "Traité des tulipes" is undoubtedly the pirated edition of La Chesnée Monstereul, "Le floriste françois" (1654). It seems possible that the "Traité de la culture des orangers," may be reprinted from the "Instruction facile pour connoistre toutes sortes d'orangers et citronniers," published by de Sercey in 1674, which was translated from the 3d book of Mandirola, "Manuale di giardinieri."

TRAITE DE LA CULTURE PARFAITE DE L'OREILLE D'OURS

Traité de la culture parfaite de l'oreille d'ours ou auricule. Par un curieux de province. Bruxelles, H. Fricx, 1732. 136 p. (Bib. Nat. Paris)

Cat. Bib. Nat. 65:633, enters under Guénin, saying the work is signed: "Ingénu." Pritzel, 1st ed., no. 11707, explains the latter as an anagramme of Guénin, while Barbier, Dict. Ouvr. Anon. 4:755, says "Un curieux de province" represents Guénin, Directeur des Aides d'Amiens. It seems likely that Gibault, Jour. Soc. Nat. Hort. France (1905), p. 734, was not personally familiar with this book, as he gives the author as "Guérin ou Guénin?" and Paris as the place of publication for the original edition. Guérin is also given as the author by Lelong, Bib. Hist. France, 2. éd., 1:200, but this is probably an inaccurate entry, and this name seems likely to have come from a typographical error. Payne, Florist's Bib. (1908), p. 19, gives the work under Guénin, listing the original issue of 1732, and that of 1738. Both Lindley Lib. and Mass. Hort. Soc. enter under Guénin, whose authorship seems to be fairly well established by the authority of Barbier and Pritzel.

The copy of the 1st ed. in Bib. Nat. Paris is described as "Avec notes mss. de M. l'abbé Lenglet Dufresnoy."

----- 2. éd., rev., cor. & augm. considérablement par l'auteur. Bruxelles, H. Fricx, Imprimeur, 1735. 237 p. (Dept. Agr.; Lindley Lib.)

Lelong, Bib. Hist., 2. éd., 1:200, gives an entry with title identical with the above, and imprint, Bruxelles, Fricx, 1745; but it seems likely that this date is incorrect rather than that it represents a distinct issue.

TRAITÉ DES TULIPES & DE LA MANIÈRE DE LES FAIRE PANACHER

Traité des tulipes & de la manière de les faire panacher. (In Boyceau de la Baraudière, Jacques. Traité du jardinage. [8. édition] Paris, C. de Sercy, 1688. p.143-152) (Boston Pub. Lib.)

Not by Boyceau himself, for it has been found that he died before his work was first published in 1638, while this tract on the tulip appeared 50 years later. The latter may have been written by de Sercy himself, or by some hack writer in his employ, to give added weight to the reissue (if such it was) of Boyceau's work. Altho this tract shows familiarity with many ideas of La Chesnée Monstereul, it is in no sense extracted from his "Floriste françois" (1654); and it reveals some originality, altho it is a work of slight importance. (MFW)

----- (In same. Paris, C. de Sercy, 1689. p.143-152) (Bib. Nat. Paris; Kat. Landb. Bib. København (1921) p.846)

A letter from the Boston Public Library, July 12, 1929, shows the text to be practically identical in the issues of 1688 and 1707; and since these issues of Boyceau all have the same paging, we may assume that the text of 1689 is the same. (MFW)

TRAICTÉ NOUVEAU DE L'AGRICULTURE

Traicté nouveau de l'agriculture & maniere de planter, arracher, labourer, semer & emonder les arbres sauvages, bois hault & bois taillis, en quel lieu, quel temps & comment: le plaisir & commodité qu'on en reçoit, pour l'aornement [sic] & beaulté [sic] des maisons de plaisance. Paris, Gilles Corrozet, 1551. [109] p. (Sigs. A - G) 17.5 cm. (Arn. Arb.)

Arn. Arb. Cat. credits this to Pierre Belon, probably because the Brit. Mus. Cat. inserts in the title, in brackets, "By P. Belon," altho it makes no reference to it under his name. It is not listed under Belon in Cat. Bib. Nat. Paris, nor is it mentioned in any of the biographical notices of him that have been seen. Beside the fact that it appeared during the lifetime of Belon, there is another argument in favor of his authorship: it was published by Gilles Corrozet, who brought out several works by Belon, notably his "Observations" in 1553. On the other hand, there is some possibility that Corrozet himself might have written it, for an account of him in Biographie Universelle states that he published many translations from the Latin &c. (MFW)

Savastano, in Ann. R. Staz. Sper. Agrumic. e Fruttio. Acireale, 6:114-115 (1922), states that this tract has been attributed by bibliophiles to Gorgole de Corne (or Gregorio dei Corno), but that it differs greatly in style from authentic work of de Corne and is actually a compilation from Columella, very poorly done. On the other hand, Dupetit-Thouars, in a sketch of Brossard in Michaud, Biog. Univ., Nouv. éd., 5:611-612, compares the tract of de Corne very unfavorably with the anonymous "Traicté nouveau de l'agriculture." While he acknowledges that the latter is taken from old Latin agricultural writings, he considers it of value because it has been well put together. He regards it as the first French treatise on the management of forests. (MFW)

TRAICTÉ NOUVEAU DE L'AGRICULTURE

----- A Paris, on le vend au Palais, en la boutique de Arnoult l'Angelier, 1551. (not located)

Savastano, in Ann. R. Staz. Sper. Agrumic. e Fruttic. Acireale, 6:114-115 (1922), gives title practically identical with that of the preceding edition, substituting the word "et" for the sign & throughout. He does not give paging. (MFW)

----- [Traicté de la manière de planter, arracher, labourer, semer & emonder les arbres sauvages, bois hault & bois taillis] (In Quatre traictez utiles et delectables de l'agriculture. Paris, Charles l'Angelier, 1560. ff. 1-39) (Dept. Agr.; N. Y. Soc. Lib.)

There is no separate title-page; above title is taken from the contents. On reverse of f.39 is "Fin du Traicté des arbres sauvages."

Dept. Agr. copy is photostated from the one in N. Y. Society Library.

----- (In Quatre traictez utiles et delectables de l'agriculture. Paris, Gilles Corrozet, 1560) (Bib. Nat. Paris)

This copy has not been seen, but inasmuch as the two issues of "Quatre traictez" have identical paging, their contents are probably alike.

As l'Angelier's edition contains Corrozet's privilege and presumably was printed after the edition of Corrozet himself, there is considerable probability that this issue should have precedence over the other. (MFW)

Traité ou Abrégé curieux et très utile touchant les jardinages, la situation d'un jardin, des pepinières, des greffes &c., de la qualité et des noms des fruits, et généralement de tout ce qui regarde le jardinage, par M. B. Paris, Jacques Morel, 1706. (Brit. Mus.; Bib. Soc. Nat. Hort.)

It is also cited in Cat. Bib. Burette (1748) 2:631, no.5822; Miltitz, col.296; and Seguiet, p.407. The above is a composite of these fragmentary titles. (MFW)

HET VERMAKELYCK LANDT-LEVEN

"Den nederlandtsen hovenier" (Amsterdam, 1670), by Jan van der Groen, contains a privilege dated "Den 10. December, in 't jaer 1668," which was granted to Marcus Willemsz. Doornick for the publication of "Zeker Boeck, geintituleert Het Vermakelyck landt-leven, bestanden in drie deelen, eerst, den Verstandigen hovenier, ten tweeden, de Nederlandtsen hovenier ... ende ten derden, den Ervaren huys-houder, mitgaders de Verstandige Kock." This privilege was transferred by Doornick, June 30, 1677, to Michiel de Groot, and renewed by him or his successors, since later editions of "Het Vermakelyck landt-leven" have a privilege dated 1711, granted for 15 years to Gijsbert de Groot.

"Den verstandigen hovenier," by Petrus Nylandt, was first published in 1669 as Deel I, probably the only part of "Het Vermakelyck landt-leven" issued in that year. Altho a work by Jan van der Groen was published by Doornick in 1669, it was the French and German "Le jardinier hollandois ... Der niederländische garten," later editions of which are entitled "Le jardinier du Pays-Bas"; and this does not appear to have ever formed part of "Het Vermakelyck landt-leven." The Dutch text of van der Groen, "Den nederlandtsen hovenier," seems to have been first issued in 1670, numbered Deel I of the collective work, and in the same year Nylandt's book, "Den verstandigen hovenier," was reissued as Deel II, retaining this number in later editions. Deel III, "Den ervaren huys-houder, of Medicyn-winckel," or sometimes with reversed title, "De medicyn-winckel, of Ervaren huys-houder," is also by P. Nylandt but is not included in the present bibliography.

Some of the bibliographical records do not show whether van der Groen's "Den nederlandtsen hovenier" and Nylandt's "Den verstandigen hovenier" were issued as parts of the "Vermakelyck landt-leven" or not. The combined work is apt to be bound in various ways, and often has no general title-page, but so far as we have seen, the actual numbering of Deel I and II is always the same. The following editions of Van der Groen have been listed: 1670, 1672, 1679, 1683, 1686, 1687, 1696, 1721; and of Nylandt: 1669, 1670, 1672, 1679, 1683, 1687, 1710, 1711.

For further details about individual editions, see in the present bibliography: Groen, Jan van der, "Den nederlandtsen hovenier"; and Nylandt, Petrus, "Den verstandigen hovenier."

(Schönhuth, Ant.-Kat. 16, no.170; Dochnahl, p.55)
Review in Becker, Taschenbuch, 1799, p.381-382.

Der Vollkommene pfropf- und oculirmeister, oder Anweisung zum nützlichen pflanzen, erziehen, pfropfen und beschneiden sowohl der obst- als zur zierde der gärten dienenden anderer bäume, nebst dem wohlunterrichteten kraut- und blumengärtner von F. H. H. Lueder. Hrsg. von John Rob. Wilks. Leipzig, 1793. (Brit. Mus.; Verz. Gartenb. Ver. Darmstadt (1875), p.16)

Brit. Mus. enters under Lueder, but says it is an incorrect attribution. Dochnahl, p.98, gives under "Lueder, pseud." Burchardt, Teutscher obstgärtner, 16:48, says: "Soll nicht von Lüder, sondern dessen name nur missbraucht seyn." It seems possible that this book may have been translated or compiled from English sources. We cannot discover any biographical data on John Rob. Wilks.

The title is somewhat reminiscent of a garbled work of the century before: "Der curieuse pfropff- und oculir-meister, so da anweiset wie eine vollkommene baum-schule und pflantz-garten anzulegen, und zu unterhalten sey ... Deme noch beygefüget Der wohl untersuchte kraut- und blumen-gärtner" (Frankfurt und Leipzig, 1690 et seq.). While it would be far fetched to assume any relationship between these two, it is evident that the "Vollkommene pfropf- und oculirmeister" of 1793 must be a similarly fraudulent production. (MFW)

DER WOHLBESTELLTE GARTENBAU

This title, which may represent several distinct books, has been attributed to various authors, and often treated as anonymous. Its issues cover a period of at least sixty years or more.

1702. The earliest in point of time was published at Wolffenbüttel in 1702, and is entered by Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.295, as "Hemlers Wohlbestellter gartenbau," a mere variation in spelling from "Henders Wohlbestellter gartenbau" of the same date, cited by Burchardt, Teutscher obstgärtner, 15:392 (after Zink, p.249). Burchardt moreover says this is by "Christ. Helwing," possibly a typographical error for Christoph Helwig, but no work of this title or nature has been credited to Helwig by other bibliographers. We cannot identify any writer by the name of Hemler or Hender, nor do we find any book with this title actually issued in 1702, altho it is not impossible that there was an edition of Dahuron's work in that year. See below, under 1705 and 1723.

1703. The next in chronological order is one attributed to Le Gendre by Burchardt, Teutscher obstgärtner, 15:385 (after Rohr, Haushaltungs-Bib. p.371), which is said to be published at Hannover and Wolffenbüttel, 1703. This is probably the German version of Le Gendre, "La manière de cultiver les arbres fruitiers," with title "Pflanzung frucht-tragender bäume," in Pieter van Aengelen's "Verständige garten-meister" (Hannover, 1703). It is apparently translated from a Dutch version by Jan Commelin; hence not only this portion but also the work of van Aengelen is sometimes attributed to Commelin. As this book was many times reissued, it may account for several citations of the "Wohlbestellter gartenbau." However, there is no reason to suppose that Le Gendre's work ever came out with this title.

1705. Seguiet, Bib. Bot., p.407, and Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.295, give a "Wohlbestellter gartenbau, oder Gründliche anweisung," said to be by "A. D. J." or "A. D. I.," and published Leipzig, H. F. Hoffmann, 1705. This is almost certainly an earlier edition of the book of the same title by René Dahuron, published 1723, and has been entered under his name, altho it has not yet been completely identified as his work.

1715. Another edition of the German version of Le Gendre came out in this year, but may not have been cited as "Wohlbestellter gartenbau."

1723. "Der wohlbestellte gartenbau, oder Gründliche anweisung, wie ein küchen-, blum- und baum-garten wohl anzulegen und in stand zu erhalten sey," published Zelle, 1723, has been definitely credited to Dahuron in Dultz, Ant.-Kat. 3, no.793. It answers to an entry in Miltitz, Bib. Bot., col.299, for a 3d ed. of Dahuron's "Vollständiger garten-bau," of which a 5th ed. was published at Weimar and Zelle, 1738. Since we cannot definitely place the 1st, 2d, and 4th editions of this book, it seems likely that Miltitz' record of the 3d was taken from some edition with the later title, while the 3d ed. was actually issued as "Wohlbestellter gartenbau," with the change of title occurring later.

1763. Altho the German version of Le Gendre was issued in 1715, 1734, 1738, 1741, 1751, 1754, 1763, 1772, and possibly other years, only the issue of 1763, together with the original of 1703, has been referred to the "Wohlbestellter gartenbau."

1793. A copy of Dahuron's "Wohlbestellter gartenbau," described as "Neue auflage" and said to be published in 1793, was advertised by Friedländer, Cat. 475, p.48; but it seems almost certain that this date was a typographical error, possibly for 1723. Altho Dahuron's book went thru a good many editions under varying titles, it is rather improbable that any of his works were reissued as late as 1793.

Finally, it seems reasonable to assume that, while some of the foregoing citations of "Wohlbestellter gartenbau" cannot be referred to Dahuron, the only veritable book published with this title is pretty certainly identified with his name.
